Members of American Mining Congress Predict Renewal of Trouble Next Spring Lacking Certain Changes

RESOLUTIONS OFFERED CONCERNING DISPUTES

Recommendation for Committee on Industrial Co-operation to Consider Means of Avoiding Stoppage of Work

CLEVELAND, Oct. 11.—Warning that another coal strike is inevitable on April 1, 1923, unless certain conditions are removed, a sharp divergence of opinion between union and non-union operators over labor policies and a manufacturer telling the mining industry "to organize its household for self-examination, self-expression and self-government," marked the third day's session of the American mining congress, which was devoted to an intensive study of the problems confronting the bituminous coal industry.

A resolution was introduced asking the congress to declare as its principles:

"That all disputes directly affecting the public interest which may not be settled by mutual agreement shall be determined by judicial process.

"That any act in combination with others which would be unlawful if done by an individual shall be unlawful on the part of all those who take part collectively and individually, all of whom shall be liable to damages to the party injured thereby.

"That every agreement, order, decision or conclusion by two or more persons, which, if carried out, would be in restraint of trade, increase the cost or restrict the production of any article of commerce, to public use, shall be declared unlawful, and that each and every person, organization or combination guilty should be properly penalized.

It also recommended that a committee on industrial co-operation be created to investigate plans to end industrial strife, either by mediation and solution or arbitration and recommend to the board of directors of the congress such plans as its investigations shall show to be advisable.

The resolution was considered by the congress, it was understood.

CAMPBELL RIVER CO. SUCCEEDS ON APPEAL

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 11.—The Campbell River Lumber Co., Ltd., has succeeded before the Supreme Court of Canada in having set aside a judgment against it of $45,000.

The litigation dated back to 1914, when the company purchased timber licenses and lands in the Campbell River area. The company had advanced $45,000 to the company so as to enable it to finance the deal. He alleged part of the agreement provided for the purchase by the company from him of $50,000 worth of stock in the North American Lumber Co. of Maine.

McKillop contended the whole transaction had been repudiated by the company, and he, therefore, entered suit to recover his $45,000. His claim was dismissed by Justice Greer, but was allowed by the Court of Appeal.

BOARD REJECTS COMPROMISE

Trustee Mrs. Andrews Meets With Opposition When She Suggests Reopening of Segregation Policy

Trustee Mrs. Bertha P. Andrews broke her long silence on the Chinese school controversy last night and attempted to persuade a majority of the School Board to recede from its segregation attitude.

She failed to win favorable support for her plan, which embraced the opening of vacant classrooms in the Girls and Boys' Central and South Park Schools for below-entrance Chinese pupils, but succeeded in having the Board undertake to give the issue further consideration at the next meeting.

On the other hand, in spite of the absence of Trustees John L. Beckwith and Walter Walker, who are regarded as strong pro-segregationists, the Board stood firm in its resolve to keep the terms of its ultimatum, delivered to the Chinese last week.

The Board first considered extending the time for attendance at the segregated schools until tomorrow (Friday), then fell back on the original policy, to regard the matter as closed. In view of the receipt of letters from the Consolidated Chinese Benevolent Societies, the Chinese Canadian Club, and Mr. Harry Hastings, condemning the Board's attitude, and from the Native Sons of British Columbia, the Anti-Exclusion League and the Victoria West Brotherhood, supporting the principle of segregation, the Board finally decided to give the matter further consideration at the next meeting, when Trustees Beckwith and Walter Walker will be present.

Conference on Peace Is Expected to Meet At Scutari on Nov. 1

French Special Envoy Says Kemalists Have Accepted Less Than He Offered Them—Arrangement of Armistice Brings Relief to Britain—Greek Elections

POSSIBLE DISPUTES OVER EXPENSES OF OCCUPATION

ROME, Oct. 11.—The conference on peace for the Near East will be held in Scutari on November 1, according to Il Mundou, which says the news comes from the Foreign Ministry here.

MUDANIA, Oct. 11.—M. Franklin-Bouillon, the French special envoy, who considers that the Kemalists are actually accepting less than he had agreed to, said today he was going to Paris to convince the authorities, if possible, that the peace conference should be held at some place where Mustapha Kemal could attend in person. This place must be within easy distance of Angora, inasmuch as, owing to a special law, Mustapha Kemal cannot leave Turkish soil.

PUBLIC HEALTH A GREAT WORK

Miss Mary Ard Mackenzie Speaks to Women's Institutes, Pointing Out How They Can Help

"The public health nurse is the most important of the public health bodies in connection with the public health campaign which is now being pushed forward," said Miss Mary Ard Mackenzie, director of public health nursing at the University of British Columbia, in the course of the very interesting address which she gave at the afternoon session of the Vancouver Island Women's Institute conference yesterday. Miss Mackenzie and Miss A. J. Dauphinee, who has charge of the special school for subnormal children in Vancouver, occupied the greater part of the afternoon with their very interesting and enlightening addresses, the vote of thanks for which was moved by Mrs. Deacon, seconded by Mrs. Watson.

Mrs. George Henderson, president of the Island Institutes, presided at this, as at other sessions during the day. The meetings, which are being held in the members' room of the Parliament Buildings, are very well attended.

"Public health is probably one of the most discussed subjects throughout the world today," said Miss Mackenzie, in opening her talk. This was as it should be, as on the health of (Continued on Page 3)

DISAPPROVE POLICY OF GOVERNMENT

People of Interior Aroused Over Extravagance of Present Administration, Says Mr. Bowser

Everywhere they went they received a most flattering reception and evidence of the growing antagonism against the policies of the present Provincial Liberal administration.

Mr. W. J. Bowser, K.C., leader of the Liberal-Conservative party in this Province, who accompanied by Mrs. Bowser, returned home yesterday morning.

"The people of the Interior, irrespective of party affiliations, are almost a unit in condemning the present Government for its policy of extravagance and the increasing taxation burdens they are being called upon to face consequent upon the tremendous outlays upon ill-considered and incompetently executed projects throughout the country," declared Mr. Bowser. "Everywhere there is a cry for economy and sane administration, and the people are in no mood to accept the time-worn excuse advanced by the members of the administration for their failure to fulfill the pledges and inaugurate measures of advantage to the taxpayer."

Mr. Bowser was accompanied on his trip to the Interior by Mr. H. H. Stevens, M.P. for Vancouver, and Mr. S. L. Howe, former president of the Provincial Conservative Association. Their reception at all points visited was a flattering one, stated Mr. Bowser, who said it was noticeable that, not alone members of the party, but also a great many who hitherto had been Liberal sympathizers turned out to accord the visitors a cordial reception.

The itinerary followed by the party included Kamloops, Vernon, Kelowna, Penticton and Nelson, where, with the exception of Kelowna, crowded public meetings were held. A trip was also made to the town of Oliver, the centre of the Government's development scheme in the South Okanagan section.

"The reception accorded to us at all points was a most flattering one, larger in point of attendance and more enthusiastic even than at previous campaign gatherings," stated Mr. Bowser, who sees in this circumstance the evidence of the keen interest being taken by the public in public affairs.

Throughout the country, the opposition leader stated, the Liberal-Conservatives are busy organizing along the lines approved at the recent Vancouver convention, and it is to be noted that at points where formerly Continued on Page 11

U.S. HAS LESS EUROPEAN TRADE

Commerce Department's Figures Show Decreases in Exports and Imports for Month of August Last

EIGHT MONTHS' VOLUME HAS ALSO DIMINISHED

Trade With South America Is Less Affected by Adverse Conditions—Particulars Relating to Europe

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—American export trade with Europe suffered a marked decline in August, dropping to $155,000,000, as compared with $206,000,000 in August, 1921, but the value of goods imported from Europe jumped up as importers hurried shipments across the Atlantic in a race against final enactment of the American tariff legislation. The imports total for August, as announced by the Commerce Department today, along with other trade figures, was $85,000,000, against $59,000,000 the same month last year.

Trade with South America, both imports and exports, show a gain over August, 1921. Exports to South America were $19,000,000, as compared with $14,000,000 a year ago. Imports were $17,000,000, as compared with $24,000,000 last year.

Figures for the eight months ending in August show that gradual progress is being made toward a balance of trade with both Europe and South America. Exports to Europe for the eight months were $1,140,000,000, against $1,140,000,000 in the first eight months of 1921, and imports from Europe were $610,000,000, as compared with $492,000,000 for the same period of last year.

Exports to South America for the eight months' period this year totalled $141,000,000, against $215,000,000 for the period last year. Imports from South America for the same period totalled $124,000,000, as compared with $124,000,000 last year. They had aggregated $207,000,000.

Exports and imports by principal countries during August, as compared with the same month last year, include:

LOOK FOR ELECTIONS BEFORE END OF YEAR

Observers in Britain Generally Predict Contest in December—Political Gossip Concerns Itself Mostly With Premier's Coming Utterances at His Manchester Meetings

Position of Ministers Still Remains Obscure

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Political writers of all shades in tonight's London papers declare that a general election in December is almost certain.

Gossip today has been concerned with the Premier's possible course in his speech at Manchester on Saturday, when, it is understood, his main effort will be to defend the government's Near Eastern policy.

The Premier left London tonight for the country, and may possibly go direct to Manchester from his home.

CONDEMN WORK OF IRREGULARS

Irish Hierarchy Issues Pastoral Letter Warmly Denouncing Murder of National Soldiers and Other Criminal Acts

DUBLIN, Oct. 11.—In the Irish Parliament the provision of the constitution for appeals from the Irish courts to the Privy Council in special cases on petition to the King was challenged.

It was contended by the Government that this arrangement was superior to that in Canada, and an appeal would be very rare. The Labour party amendment to this provision was defeated, 37 to 23.

A definite proclamation against the anti-treaty rebellion was made yesterday by the Irish hierarchy, and is expected to have an important influence on the situation.

The hierarchy issued a pastoral letter condemning in the strongest terms guerrilla warfare against the Free State Government and declaring that "the killing of national soldiers is murder before God."

Denouncing robbery and the destruction of roads and railways, the letter enjoins that persons guilty of these crimes shall not be given absolution or admitted to communion if they persist in such evil courses.

"It is almost incredible, inconceivable," the pastoral declares, "that there are any such persons who are guilty of the gravest crimes, and will not be allowed to retain the faculties held from us."

The bishops declare that the country is ruined from end to end, and that more havoc has been wrought than the British troops could have done in three decades.

REDS SUCCEED AT VLADIVOSTOK

Dieterichs and His Anti-Soviet Forces Are Obligated to Surrender—Bolsheviks Now Control Siberia

HONOLULU, Oct. 11.—General Dieterichs, head of the Vladivostok Government, and his anti-Soviet forces have surrendered to the Reds, according to a cable dispatch today. It is stated that the surrender of the Vladivostok defenders now makes the Soviet supreme in Siberia.

Recent dispatches from Tokyo reported that Dieterichs and his army had been badly beaten and were retreating before the onslaught of the Soviet troops. The Vladivostok defenders were said to have been short of rifles, although plentifully supplied with ammunition. Soviet cavalry was attempting to cut the line of communication between Vladivostok and Nikolayevsk, sixty miles northwest of Vladivostok.

SENATOR H. BOSTOCK SUFFERS INJURIES

Taken to Hospital for X-Ray Examination Because of Hurt Sustained in Fall From Horse

KAMLOOPS, Oct. 11.—Senator Hewitt Bostock, speaker of the Canadian Senate, was brought to Kamloops Hospital tonight for X-ray examination, to determine the extent of the injuries sustained when he was thrown from his horse while riding last week in his ranch in Monte Creek.

The Senator is suffering great pain, and it is feared that he is injured internally. The result of the examination will not be known until Thursday morning.

Grand Trunk Earnings
MONTREAL, Oct. 11.—Grand Trunk Railway traffic earnings for the period ended October 7, 1922, were $2,147,914, compared with $2,387,443 in 1921, a decrease of $239,529.

HON. MR. MANSON WAXES WRATH

"A Yellow, Yellow Cur," Is Epithet Applied by Attorney-General to Mr. H. H. Stevens in Severe Arraignment

REFUTES CHARGES OF MALADMINISTRATION

Mr. F. R. Carlow Is Named President of Victoria City Liberal Association After Warm Faction Fight

"A YELLOW, yellow cur, that is the only word I can apply to H. H. Stevens," declared Attorney-General Manson, in a vehement speech before the Victoria City and District Liberal Association at Liberal headquarters last night, when he replied to charges which Mr. Stevens made in Vancouver and at Interior points in the course of his recent trip with Mr. W. J. Bowser, K.C., provincial leader of the Liberal-Conservative party, charges reflecting upon the administration of the liquor act by Hon. Mr. Manson, as Attorney-General and head of the liquor branch of the Government.

"I don't have to apologize for anything in my past nor in my administration of the liquor department. I sometimes look out of my window and hear the whine of a dog—a yellow cur. I heard him whining in Penticton, and again in Vancouver—a yellow, yellow cur. I congratulate Mr. Bowser. He has told the nasty, dirty work to do for the past five years, but now he is relieved; he has a scavenger who goes out into the by-ways and digs among filth. That scavenger is the ex-minister of Trade and Commerce," declared Mr. Manson, amid applause.

It was the annual meeting of the city Liberal organization, and the room was crowded to the utmost limit, the 450 persons present being attracted chiefly by the keen contest for the presidency which has been going on for the time past between the two factions, one headed by Mr. F. R. Carlow, acting-president during the past year, and the anti-Carlow element which was out to elect L. U. Conyers, for fifteen years treasurer of the organization.

The Carlow adherents gained a sweeping victory. Mr. Carlow being elected president over Mr. Conyers by a vote of 295 to 120. A large number present were not qualified to vote. In the audience was a large number of Government employees, the liquor control forces being well represented.

TRUSTEES DEAL WITH QUESTIONS

Provision of School Books and Extension of Normal Training Favored—Other Resolutions Voted Down

PENTICTON, B. C., Oct. 11.—Teachers who use compulsion, wear short skirts and cut their hair were the subject of discussion at the British Columbia School Trustees' Association convention in session here at this afternoon's meeting.

The resolution sought to prohibit the use of powder or cosmetics, and compel "plain, non-transparent clothing, with no extremes in style." It was not adopted, the majority of the delegates holding that it was a matter that might well be left to the good sense of the teachers themselves, or that could be regulated, where necessary, by principals or school board secretaries.

One delegate wished to know why, if the girls were to be denied the right to bob their hair, men were not forbidden to shave.

The resolution submitted by the North Vancouver district board that no pupil be admitted to high school without first having written the entrance examination was defeated.

Duncan consolidated board submitted a resolution asking that the standard of high school entrance be materially raised. This was also defeated.

The delegates went on record as favoring the Department of Education supplying school books at cost to school boards, the latter to supply them without profit to pupils. The department was also asked to extend the normal school training so that teachers could be more adequately trained. This went through without discussion.

A long discussion arose over the resolution from the executive committee that the public school course be extended by one year beyond the present entrance to high school, and that such subjects be added to the public school course as would enable pupils who have no intention of attending a high school to secure a more thorough education than the present course affords.

Reporting the results of recommendations made to the Department of Education as a result of the last convention, the executive committee noted with satisfaction that the department was showing more disposition than formerly to consider favorably the suggestions of the trustees.

TO DISCUSS TOURIST PLANS AT DINNER

Major and Aldermen Will Attend Chamber of Commerce Meeting Tonight—New Victoria Slides

Arrangements have been made for a joint meeting of the tourist trade interest group with the Publicity Bureau executive, to take the form of a joint evening dinner meeting at the Dominion Hotel, at 8:30 o'clock this evening.

Members of this group have signed their interest in the visit to the Prairies of Victoria's Publicity Commissioner, Mr. George I. Warren, and it has been decided that the programme of business shall include an outline by Mr. Warren of the business of his mission, together with a preliminary view of the lantern slides to be used.

Mayor Marchant, aldermen and directors of the Chamber of Commerce are being asked to attend, it being the intention to fully discuss the 1923 auto camp site arrangements and those of the weekly winter entertainments for tourists.

ROBERT LAW VISITS HIS WOUNDED WIFE

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11.—Robert Law, husband of the woman who was shot Monday night, arrived today from Calgary. After visiting his wife at the hospital he made a statement to the police, and it is believed detectives are searching for a man whom they have been given a description. Interviewed, Mr. Law refused to make a statement, beyond the fact that he found his wife improving and his recovery is expected. He said he would make no statement except to the police.

CANADA IS BEST U.S. CUSTOMER

Departmental Figures Show That This Country Passed Britain in Volume of Trade During August

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Canada tops the list of countries in trade with the United States for August, figures issued today by the Department of Trade and Commerce disclose.

The United States sold more goods to Canada than to any other country, and also bought more goods from the Dominion during the month. Canada ordinarily is second to Great Britain in the volume of trade with this country. During August, however, both exports to and imports from the Dominion were a million dollars above those of the Old Country.

The figures are: Canada, exports $26,000,000, against $25,000,000 in August 1921; imports $32,000,000, against $24,000,000 in August, 1921. Great Britain, exports $25,000,000, against $26,000,000 in August 1921; imports $31,000,000, against $16,000,000 in August, 1921.

It will be noted that these figures register an improved trade condition as regards this country. While the value of the goods which the United States sold the Dominion dropped $12,000,000 as against the corresponding month of last year, the increase in her sales to the United States by $8,000,000 over the sales of August, 1921.

Third place in the list is held by Germany with these figures: Exports $24,000,000, against $15,000,000 in 1921; imports $11,000,000, against $7,000,000.

Exports to France were $4,000,000, against $15,000,000 last year, and imports from France were $13,000,000, against $11,000,000.

The figures show that the total export trade of the United States with Europe suffered a marked decline during the month, dropping to $156,000,000, as compared with $206,000,000 in August, 1921. The value of goods imported from Europe jumped upward the total being $85,000,000 against $59,000,000 in the same month last year.

The rush of imports to bring goods into the country before the final enactment of the United States tariff legislation accounts to some degree for the increase in both Canadian and European importation totals.

BRITAIN PREPARES TO PAY U. S. INTEREST

LONDON, Oct. 11.—"The British Government," it was semi-officially stated today, "is taking steps to pay $50,000,000 into the New York Federal Reserve Bank on October 16, on account of this year's interest on Great Britain's debt to the United States."

This fifty-million dollars, as the statement explains, represents payment on account of the interest. The exact amount will not be settled until the conference in Washington, to be held by Sir Robert Horne, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and the United States Government officials.

SECURES CONCESSION IN BAKU OIL LANDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Henry Mason Day, president of the International Petroleum Corporation, today returned from Russia with what is claimed to be the first contract with a foreign concern to be ratified by all the heads of the soviet government. It was a concession for the development of 400 acres in the Baku oil lands.

"There can be no question as to the desirability of the soviet government to make possible the entry of American interests in the development of resources in their country," said Mr. Day.

"Ratification of this contract," he said, "proved conclusively that the doors of Russia are opening."

MARK AND CROWN GO LOWER STILL

Former Is Affected by Heavy Product of Printing Press—Both Units Quoted in Millions at Geneva

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—The flood of new currency has literally knocked the crutches from under the hobbling mark and crown, and in consequence the expansion in German money the hoarding of dollars and of other high currencies has become the almost exclusive investment by all classes in Germany.

Considerations of patriotism seemingly have failed to impress the nation, who appear to concur with the financial writer of the Kreuz Zeitung in branding as a fool any one who would still save marks. The search for dollars has become such a pronounced sport that its devotees are deserting their former pastime of collecting stamps and other curios in the rush to buy greenbacks.

To this extent the "dollar fans" are materially contributing to the driving down of the mark to new levels and virtually completing the process of absorbing foreign money, in which the big speculators, banks, industrialists and commercial leaders are now indulging, ostensibly as a matter of protection, and stocking up on raw products or establishing "dollar reserves."

Under these conditions the financial writers are inclined to view the rate of 900 marks to the dollar as an obvious phenomenon, although isolated critics are disposed to blame foreign manipulators for the current slump, citing New York's closing rate, which is 200 marks lower than Berlin's official rate on the dollar. None of the commentators appear concerned that the psychological effect produced by the daily output of marks from numberless batteries of printing presses, the yield of which is reported with much enthusiasm as the breaking of a world record in some sporting contest.

GENEVA, Oct. 11.—Austrian crowns are now quoted only in millions on the Geneva stock exchange. The directors of the exchange decided today to transact business in Austrian currency only on that basis, and quoted 67 Swiss francs for a million crowns. They also are considering whether to limit quotations for German marks to millions.

YOUNG MURDERER CONFESSES CRIME

Otis Dorch Tells of Cold-Blooded Murder of His Employer, C. H. Kelly, at Yukon, Alta.

VICTORIA, Oct. 10.—Love for his employer's wife caused Otis Dorch, 19-year-old farm hand, to shoot and kill Charles H. Kelly, a well known Yukon farmer, last Friday, according to a confession made by Dorch after his arrest. He accepted as evidence at the preliminary hearing held here Monday. Both Otis and his 17-year-old brother, Othello, were committed for trial on a charge of murder, following the money given by twelve witnesses called for the prosecution. They were taken to Lethbridge jail, and will be held there until the trial, which will be held in Calgary next January.

During the hearing, the elder Dorch maintained an unruffled bearing. He smiled calmly at the witnesses, cross-examined some of them minutely and exhibited great interest in the proceedings. He smiled slightly when his confession was read by Corporal Siddons of the Alberta Provincial Police, and when asked if he wished to question the police officer's statements, he merely smiled again and murmured that they were "correct." The younger lad, who, according to the evidence, was unaware that his brother went to Kelly's house on the night of October 8 to kill, took no part in the proceedings, but was content to let his brother ask questions.

Only once during the proceedings did Dorch exhibit an emotion. When being led back by the Yukon detachment at the conclusion of the hearing, he threw one arm around his brother and said: "Cheer up, Othello. It may mean the rope for me, but you'll be running around the farm again in a few weeks; they've got nothing on you."

Following is part of the text of his confession: "I got familiar with Mrs. Charles H. Kelly, and was very jealous of her husband. I am in love with her, and she promised to marry me when her husband died. If that happened, I could see where I would be on easy street. I borrowed Albert Greenleaf's car, telling him that I was going to meet a bootlegger. I went with my brother to my dad's farm about 8 o'clock Friday evening, October 6. I told dad I wanted his shotgun to go duck hunting. My brother and I started off in the car, and stopped near Kelly's gate. I got out of the car and walked over to Kelly's house, leaving my brother in the car."

"I called out: 'How's chances to get some grub?' "Kelly came down in his night-shirt. He did not recognise me so I walked in front of him to the garage, carrying the shotgun in front of me so that he could not see it. I stood in the far corner of the yard and as soon as Kelly came to the door I fired at him. I then ran out of the door of the garage and then ran to where my brother was in the car."

BUDGET SCHEME IS LAID OVER

Methodist Conference, After Long Discussion, Decides to Appoint Committee to Consider Question

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—The Methodist General Conference will appoint a committee of experts to study the question of a budget scheme and re-organization of the departments of the church and report to the next quadrennial conference.

An amendment to the report of the committee on departmental work proposed by Rev. J. W. McConnell, president of the New Brunswick conference, to the above effect, was adopted last night at the conference by a vote of 173 to 133.

This means that the question which proved a contentious one for two days, will be shelved for another four years.

Sir Joseph Flavell, of Toronto, led the opposition to the proposed budget plan, and considered it a mistake in tactics and in procedure.

Rev. J. G. Brown, Vancouver, was the first advocate of the budget system, and presented arguments to show overlapping of departmental work. It had been said that there should be a reduction in the work of the temperance and social reform departments, but he wished to emphasize that today temperance and social reform was just as important as when General Superintendent Chown had charge of the work.

Rev. H. Lewis, president of the Saskatchewan Conference, said that although a budget proposal had been voted down in conference a year ago, the call for a budget system was still strong in his district.

Colonel C. B. Keenleyside, Regina, considered the question of reorganization of the departments one of the most important before the conference, because it affected the very vitals of the church. He expressed the view that the whole financial obligation should be taken from the ministers and shouldered by the laymen of the church.

George Ball, Victoria, said he could drive a "coach and four" through some of the clauses in the plan, and that if the conference was looking for something to solve its difficulties they would be sadly disappointed.

Rev. James Endicott, of the foreign missions department, was entirely opposed, and declared he never had met a foreign missionary secretary or a foreign missionary who liked a budget system. The attitude of the missionary society had been neutral on the question of a budget, and he hoped that if it was adopted, the organization would be left out of it.

Rev. R. E. McCullough, Winnipeg, was in favor of the proposal, because, as he said, experience had taught them a budget was a good thing.

Sir Joseph Flavell stated that he stood out in strong opposition to the proposal. There was something far more required than a budget plan. He did not know what that requirement was, but it was akin to reform in the work of the church. It was not that there was a lack of money, for it was in evidence in all walks of life.

"There is plenty of money for gasoline," said Sir Joseph, "but none to give reasonable accommodation for the worship of God."

Sir Joseph declared that it would have warmed his heart if a call had gone out to the laymen of the church, and they had placed before them an assumption of all the obligations of the church. He would have had a message sent to the laymen of Canada to free the ministers of their obligations and concerns in their respective districts; and he would have hoped from such an effort more results could be obtained than from any mechanical organization, however excellent it might be.

Elmer Davis, of Kingston, chairman of the sub-committee of the committee on departmental work, again emphasized the requests made to missionary funds through wills were regarded as trust funds, and did not come under the budget. Also, he declared that autonomy in local churches with regard to the raising of moneys for local purposes would not be interfered with by the operation of the proposed budget. He said he considered the proposals appropriate.

Heavy Insurance Loss
TORONTO, Oct. 11.—Thirty adjusters of fire insurance claims left this city for Northern Ontario today to adjust the claims in the burned district. It is estimated that $5,000,000 will be paid out in fire insurance in the devastated area in a few days.

You Can Get Back Your Grip on Health

A statement that will be of much concern to thousands of people in Alberta was made recently by William Williamson, a veteran of the World War, residing at 215 Tenth Street, Northeast, Calgary. "I believe in giving everything its due," he continued, "and I want to say right now that I just can't praise Tanlac too highly for what it has done in my case. For some time I had been in a badly run-down condition. I had absolutely no appetite and had fallen off seventeen pounds in weight. My nerves were all unstrung. I could not get sufficient rest at night and got up mornings feeling as tired as when I went to bed. I was also bothered a great deal with rheumatism in my legs and ankles, which would often get so stiff and sore I could not walk without great pain."

"No much was being said in the papers about Tanlac, so I went to a druggist friend for advice. He assured me that Tanlac was good, so I began using it and soon found myself wonderfully improved. After taking a few bottles my troubles all disappeared and I found I had regained fifteen pounds of my lost weight. I am now enjoying splendid health and don't hesitate to recommend Tanlac to anyone."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. (Advt.)

98 Out of Every 100 Women Benefited

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 50,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

Replies, to date, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES. That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100. Did you ever hear of anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98

THE LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.,
Cobourg, Ont. and Lynn, Mass.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing.

It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure-all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it. It's reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

STRONGLY TAKES PREMIER'S SIDE

London Daily Telegraph Believes That Mr. Lloyd George Will Confound His Opponents by Speech on Saturday

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The Daily Telegraph, which in the last few days has said very little about political crises in the domestic sphere, comes down heavily this morning on the side of Premier Lloyd George.

The flood of abuse which has been poured out on the Premier, The Telegraph says, has left him no choice but to contrive an opportunity for placing his case before his countrymen. The existence of a war party in the cabinet, as alleged by the opponents of the Premier, is described by The Telegraph as a fantastic legend.

The charge brought by Viscount Grey and former Premier H. H. Asquith is that the Government ought to have separated themselves from the Allies. The Telegraph continues, yet the Government would not have evaded a single difficulty by doing so. The Telegraph expresses the belief that war was prevented by the Government's prompt action in hastening reinforcements to the Near East.

"If it be objected," says The Telegraph, "that our Allies equally with ourselves approved of the same policy, and yet withdrew their forces, it is enough to say that the French Premier continually reaffirmed his determination that there should be no use of force under any pretext, and that visible force is the sole argument to which the Kemalists would have yielded."

In conclusion, The Telegraph states: "When the Premier defends himself at Manchester on Saturday, the people will see how they have been duped and deceived."

A nation depended its happiness and efficiency.

She noted three outstanding changes which had taken place of late years in connection with the public health movement. First, all classes of men from the man on the street to the statesman, were now interested in the subject. Second, there had come about a change, in the meaning of the word health, which today was used in its sense of mental health, spiritual health and physical health. Third, there had come a complete change in the manner of looking at the subject of health. Today prevention rather than cure was the keynote.

Publicity Important

"And when we recognize prevention as our keynote the importance of publicity is seen," continued the speaker. Under the microscope there was a certain mystery thrown over disease. People did not trace disease to its beginning. But the new health movement recognized that there were always causes, and these were effects, and set about finding the cause, isolating it, studying it, and getting rid of it. Tuberculosis in infants, for instance, was preventable.

"In a campaign of public health there are two great agencies; first, the official bodies, boards of health, their various workers, composed largely of experts specially trained in connection with public health work; and second, the big body of unofficial workers, the voluntary organizations and individuals," indicated Miss Mackenzie. These two classes were important one to the other, and it was important that they should understand their relative duties, and the importance, that they should co-operate in carrying out regulations that were to make for the better health of the world.

Unofficial Worker

The very important role of the unofficial worker in interpreting the officials to the community and the community to the officials was shown. The work of the voluntary organizations was largely publicity work.

"And publicity work is one of the most important things in connection with the public health campaign," reiterated the speaker. Educational methods were required to advise the community in carrying out for education there had to be publicity. Another part which the unofficial organizations should take in hand was the experimental work along the lines of prevention. The officials might do this had they the time and money. But the public would always question the use of money for such work, whereas the voluntary organizations might raise their own money for these purposes.

"A great deal of the work that has been done in connection with tuberculosis and child welfare work, well baby clinics, etc., has been done by the voluntary organizations," said Miss Mackenzie.

"Another work of the voluntary organizations, and one of the most important of all, is to keep alive the social service spirit, the humanitarian spirit," said the speaker to approving applause. The official body was a cold body; the humanitarian side was essential to successful work.

After stating that she considered the public health nurse the most important element in the public health campaign, Miss Mackenzie proceeded to tell something of the history of the public health nurse. The modern public health nurse was an evolution from the unassuming and retiring little district nurse. When the new public health office came into being the habits of the officials were tied among the people to do the work, and they quite naturally hit upon the district nurse who for years had been going in and out of the homes of the poor, working among diseases which were more or less epidemic, to help them out of the dilemma. This nurse was acceptable to the people. She was unconsciously enough, their teacher in health laws, also a preventive agent. Besides, she was doing a great deal of social service work in her capacity of friend and confidante of the whole district, she had already won her way into the houses and hearts of the people. It was reasonable to recognize that no one would be more acceptable than she for the new work. The social service revival came along on the heels of this new preventive work.

Heaping on Work
"We keep on heaping all kinds of things on the district nurse without giving her any additional recognition of it," said the speaker. Apart from that given by the Victorian Order of Nurses there was, until recently, no special training for district nurses, although it was very important that a nurse entering on this work should have this training. Today there were hundreds of such courses. Still supported by the nurses themselves, because they recognized their value.

Miss Mackenzie proceeded to tell what should be sought for in the public health nurse, her picture portraying a paragon of all the virtues and a being of energy incarnate. She should have a thorough knowledge of everything pertaining to the care of sick people, an ability to give bedside care was particularly important in rural districts. If a district could support only one nurse, that one should do general public health nursing. Later, if the community felt in a position to support more than one nurse they might engage a specialist.

"And you must learn the language of the different classes of people with whom she is going to confer. Her knowledge of psychology, experience, practice, these will all help her. She must be able to give her information to all types of people so that it will have good results."

She spoke of the courses which are being given for district nurses in the University of British Columbia. Psychology, teaching principles, lectures in public speaking, the preparation and presenting of subject matter, practical work, the public health nurse should be able to conduct clinics, well baby clinics, nutritional clinics, pre-natal work, etc. She should be able to organize classes, which are very important features of carrying on work in rural districts. She should be able to approach the school board, the town council, and explain things to them; to make a survey of the district from a public health viewpoint, pointing out some of the necessary reforms from which the community would benefit. She should be able to co-operate with the various public health agencies in the district, and should understand social and public welfare problems, also being able to carry up with the agencies which would help to solve these problems.

Humanitarian Spirit
Again emphasizing the necessity of the humanitarian spirit, Miss Mackenzie pointed out how necessary it was that the nurse should realize this. It was the spirit of service, of voluntary service, which kept public health work alive. Without the humanitarian touch the work would die.

On the other hand the nurse might expect certain things. Three elements underlay success in public health nursing, first, the committee; second, the nurse; third, the community. On the committee rested the responsibility of having the nursing in that district conducted in the way that was best for that community. A nurse might justly expect in going to make up the district there would be a well-ordered committee waiting to receive her.

"You cannot send a nurse into a district where there is anything but chaos in the organization, and expect her to succeed," said Miss Mackenzie, who was firm on this point of well-organized committees. The public health nurse belonged to everyone and the carrying out of a good programme of public health nursing belonged to the whole community, therefore the committee should be representative of all the various interests of the community. This committee should meet at least once a month, and should receive the nurse's report for discussion, consider her plans and suggestions, and advance some of the work. The important point, finally, was to work with the nurse and try to get mutual vision. If the district were to be managed economically so far as its public health work was concerned, then the nurse should be left to do the expert work, leaving the volunteer organizations to do some of the other work, which did not require expert workers.

Nutritional Clinics
"Not enough is being done in the nutritional clinics," claimed the speaker. The various voluntary committees might come in and help the nurse with this work, and the nurse should not have to be worried with the financing of the work or the publicity work. These were things for the voluntary organizations.

"There is a great deal of bad organization, of wobbly organization, which is really responsible for a large percentage of failures in our public health work. There is nothing we need so much in nursing as a well-defined programme," said the speaker. The whole question was one which could be greatly helped by the Women's Institutes. They were a well-organized body for voluntary service and could accomplish much in the rural districts.

JUDGE DISCHARGES BRIGDEN JURORS

POSTOFFICE CASE TRAVERSED TO NEXT ASSIZES

Court Makes Strong Comment on Way in Which Material Confession Was Introduced in Evidence

The trial of Charles Brigden, charged with stealing letters from the local postoffice, came to an abrupt and unexpected end yesterday, when Mr. Justice Morrison, with a strong expression of his dissatisfaction with the procedure, discharged the jury and traversed the case to the Spring Assizes.

The learned judge bluntly intimated that evidence given at the preliminary hearing before Magistrate Jay, and available to the Crown on the recent trial, evidence which would have made legally proper the admission to the record of the alleged confession of his guilt by Brigden to his superior officer, should have been adduced by Mr. J. S. Brandon, who appeared for the Crown.

The Alleged Confession
With the case for the Crown closed at the adjournment on Tuesday, Mr. J. A. Alkman, who with Mr. E. B. Williams defended the prisoner, opened the case for the defence yesterday with a statement that the Crown would offer no evidence. Instead, he moved that counts two and three of the indictment be stricken out, on grounds that no proof had been adduced in respect of them. The court ruled against the defence on these motions.

Counsel then made the submission which was responsible for ending the trial by the withdrawal of the case from the jury. Mr. Alkman argued that the letter written by Brigden to Postoffice Inspector J. H. Corley, in which Brigden, an employee of the postoffice for fourteen years, confessed that he had been stealing letters for some years, was not properly before the jury. In that the Crown had failed to show that Mr. Corley, the superior officer of Brigden, had given him the warning which the law requires of any person obtaining a confession from anyone charged with a criminal offence.

Neither Promise Nor Threat

Mr. Brandon, to whom the court put it that this submission by the defence was difficult to meet, argued that he had sufficiently followed the legal rule of criminal courts, i.e. that he had got from Inspector Corley a positive assurance that Brigden had neither been threatened nor promised. If he would make the confession, it had been shown, contended Mr. Brandon, that Brigden had merely been asked to sign a written statement of what he had already confessed.

The learned judge held that that was not the state of the court record of the trial. It was extremely doubtful if the proper foundation had been laid for the admission as evidence of the confession. If it were allowed to go to the jury, the court would have to instruct them that the confession was not conclusive against the prisoner.

The court instructed counsel to turn to the depositions of the prisoner, the preliminary hearing before Magistrate Jay.

"I want you to read that," said the judge, naming the full number of the transcript; read it to yourselves; it is not for the jury to hear."

Judge's Strong Comment

"Why were those questions not put to Inspector Corley at this trial, Mr. Brandon? I am bound to say that I am not satisfied with the way this trial has progressed. If I give effect to Mr. Alkman's submission, I shall do so by discharging the jury. This is a most important trial. It involves a high question of the state. If the case should go to the jury as it now stands, it is almost certain that there would have to be a new trial. Apart from other considerations there is the question of the heavy expense to the public which that would involve. Under the circumstances, I shall give effect to the submission of the defence by discharging the jury."

"Gentlemen, you are discharged," concluded the learned judge, turning to the jury. "The case will be traversed to the next assizes."

On the application of Mr. Alkman, and with the consent of the Crown, the accused was released on his previous bonds, to appear for trial when called upon, and the Justice Court was declared to be adjourned sine die.

PREMIER HUGHES' IDEA MEETS WITH APPROVAL

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The declaration of Premier Hughes, of Australia, this week that the dominions should have a voice in framing the foreign policy of the Empire is unanimously endorsed by all critics, says a Morning Post dispatch from Sydney.

Earl Page, a well known member of the Australian House, urges the formation of an imperial relations commission in London consisting of home and dominion cabinet ministers.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS TO BELGIANS

LONDON, Oct. 11.—In a speech acknowledging a wreath placed on the cenotaph by the Belgian Fanfare Band, which is now in London giving entertainments on behalf of hospitals and wounded men, Premier Lloyd George said Great Britain's entry into the recent struggle for liberty and right had cost her heavily, but great as was the sacrifice, and much as she was suffering from it down to this hour the British people had never regretted it for one second.

It was a proud page in British history. "We are glad to stand beside Belgium in the war," he continued, "and we hope to stand beside Belgium and France and all our Allies in the cause of peace. It would indeed be a tragedy if, having worked together facing death in war, we parted when we tried to march together to the reconstruction of the world."

POLICY AT MERVILLE

The report submitted to Mr. E. D. Barrow, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, on the subject of the Merville settlement is not necessarily conclusive that everything done there is for the best. We are sure that the settlers want to know most at the present time what the Land Settlement Board intends to do in reparation for the damages inflicted on the colony through fire. What the public are concerned in is the amount of money that has already been sunk in the project, the possibilities that exist for its repayment and the question of whether the land can be made productive to the extent of insuring a livelihood to the settlers. On the last point the report is specific. It says the soil varies greatly in very short distances from sand and gravel suitable only for such crops as "beautiful red loam on which can be raised to perfection any farm crop grown." The question is how many of the settlers can benefit through the agricultural possibilities and the extent to which the Land Settlement Board is prejudiced in the matter of Merville.

The settlers themselves in some instances have been very cautious about the administration of the Land Settlement Board. They should know something of the conditions under which they work. There is no question that the conditions under which the land is offered to the settlers are exceptionally favorable, but the land does not yet belong to the settlers and they have ultimately to pay for both land, and to some extent, for improvements so that their resultant obligations will be considerable, and it cannot be said that any of the settlers, as yet, are making a living off the land. The Minister of Agriculture should make public the amount of the Provincial commitment and the further sum that will be required to be spent before there is any return on the capital expenditure. We hope that the optimism expressed in the report of the Land Settlement Board will be justified, but there are features connected with the experiment which should be made public. The report does not say if the settlers are satisfied with the policy pursued respecting them up to date, yet that is a very important feature of the situation.

BRITISH POLITICS

The question of the possibility of an early election is again agitating the people of Great Britain. It is conceded that an election will not be delayed longer than the early months of 1923, whereas it may be held during the present autumn. Whenever it comes the stability of the Coalition Government will be on trial. The fate of that Government will, to all intents and purposes, be decided at the forthcoming gathering of Conservatives and Unionists, who have been since the Coalition was formed, the chief and most powerful supporters of Mr. Lloyd George. This support is more lukewarm at the present time than ever in the past, and some of the most powerful spirits among the Conservatives are urging a return to straight party adherence.

The present Coalition ministry is by no means so united now as it was at the beginning of the year. There are divergencies among its members in both purpose and principle. If the Coalition is to be maintained there will be cabinet reconstruction before the next appeal to the people. It is during such reconstruction that the clash of party interests will be fully apparent. For the first time Mr. Lloyd George has emerged from the latest crisis arising out of the danger of war in the Near East with a success that hardly seemed likely a few weeks ago. The credit, however, is not believed to rest with him but with Lord Curzon, who assumed an authority in the circumstances which rightly belongs to the Foreign Secretary. At the same time it is questionable if the Prime Minister has lost any considerable part of the popularity that he has enjoyed during and since the Great War. He is not insured now of the same loyal support from the Conservatives, but he still has the backing of a large element in the country. If the Coalition continues it must do so after the next general election with a substantially decreased majority in the House of Commons. It can only continue by a renewal of the official support of the Conservatives. It is the leaders of this party who hold the key to the present political situation in Great Britain.

In the event of the Conservatives deciding to return to straight party allegiance there are four names that stand out as likely to be considered for the leadership. They are Lord Curzon, Lord Derby, Mr. Bonar Law and Mr. Austen Chamberlain. It would be difficult to foresee upon whom the choice would ultimately fall. With the Irish question disposed of Britain in the years to come must more and more turn her attention to foreign politics. The Near Eastern crisis was a warning that her affairs should be committed to statesmen who are big enough and strong enough to uphold Britain's prestige in the international arena. The reputation of Lord Curzon has been enhanced by his conduct of the negotiations which led to the Mudania armistice convention. His admirers are probably recalling the prophecy of Dr. Jowett, of Balliol, who, over forty years ago, said: "Mark my words, George Curzon will be one of the greatest Prime Ministers England has ever had." Of the others mentioned in connection with the leadership the name of Lord Derby stands high. No influence within the Conservative Party could do more to reconcile all divergent interests. He is a power in the land at present and if not selected for the leadership would be certain to be offered one of the most important ministries if a Conservative Government came into power. The claims of Mr. Bonar Law, a former leader, and of Mr. Austen Chamberlain, the present leader of the Conservative Party in the House of Commons, are obvious, though either might be passed over in a policy of reconstructing the party for election purposes.

U. S. A. AND PROHIBITION

The Daugherty Liquor Act savors very much like an attempt by the United States to infringe on the freedom of the seas. In effect it is designed to prohibit foreign vessels from carrying liquors within the territorial waters of the United States. It purports to give the American authorities the right of seizure, but that is a right which must be questioned as there is no international law on the subject. The act as it stands can only be described as an impost on the free laws of the sea. It is a legislative device which could not stand the test of the courts, or if it could receive the sanction of the American bench the shipping companies of other nations would speedily find means of putting their vessels outside such jurisdiction.

What lies behind the move to enforce prohibition in American territorial waters is the desire to put artificial obstacles in the way of foreign vessels so that trade may gravitate to the fleet of the United States Shipping Board. We hardly think that would be the result. The United States is concerned because the vessels of other nations, and notably those of Great Britain, are beating American vessels in open competition and securing by far the larger proportion of the trade to and from the United States. The Daugherty Liquor Act is a move to handicap foreign vessels, but the British shipping companies do not believe it will have the effect desired. They are prepared, if necessary, to transfer the bulk of their steamship traffic to Canadian ports.

REGISTRATION SLACK FOR ESQUIMALT LIST

Only Six Householders and License-holders Have Made Declaration for Voters' List to Date

Only six Esquimalt residents entitled to have their names placed on the Esquimalt township voters' list for 1923 under householders and license-holders qualifications have so far taken the declaration at the Esquimalt Municipal Hall. The list was opened at the beginning of the month and will remain open until 5 o'clock October 21.

Last year's registration amounted to 200, which was the largest registration in the municipality. This is supplemented by twelve hundred property owners in Esquimalt, whose names are automatically placed on the voters' list.

The payment of two dollars road tax is necessary before license-holders and householders are permitted to take the declaration placing them on the voters' list, and the declaration provides that the prospective voter seeking to have his name on the list to become eligible to cast his vote for the Reeve and Council at the January elections shall have been a resident of the district since the beginning of the year. Trade licensees must be in existence and not less than five dollars. It is pointed out that an elector cannot qualify on a trade license which has expired.

Last year's registration, although the largest, was by no means complete, and it is believed that many entitled to have their names placed on the voters' list neglected to avail themselves of the opportunity of securing the franchise. Five thousand and one hundred and twenty-two property owners on the list and two hundred and twenty-two householders and license-holders qualified by this year's registrations up to fourteen hundred, a number considerably below the voting strength of the township.

Although only six have registered at the Municipal Hall up to the present, the usual rush during the last few days of registration is expected. The attendance of interested voters at every meeting of the Esquimalt Council and the interest taken in municipal matters throughout the district would indicate that indifference to civic affairs is no charge which can be leveled against Esquimalt residents in spite of the slackness during the early days of registration.

Chinese Segregation

Sir,—The Chinese-Canadian Club is composed of a body of Canadian-born Chinese, whose future must be decided by and with Canada, and as many of us are married and some have children, it goes without saying that we view the attitude of the present School Board with considerable anxiety. Kindly grant me space to explain our position, in the light of present developments.

The initial mistake made by the Chinese was when they, believing in the good intentions of the past School Board, accepted the principle of segregation at Rock Bay eight years or so ago. There, segregation was confined to first and second primers, and first and second readers. It was thought that segregation would enable the children to better acquire a knowledge of English. After eight years' experience it has proved to be a complete failure, if we are to accept the statements of the Municipal Inspector of Schools. We little thought that it was the thin end of the wedge which had for its purpose really to prevent the children acquiring a knowledge of English. In any case, that has seemingly been the result.

With this experience before us, we are asked to accept an extension of the plan to cover third readers, high and low, and fourth reader, low, otherwise up to the entrance class. If we accept this we have no reason to expect any better result, so the next step will be on the grounds of imperfect knowledge of English and we will be prevented from competing for the entrance classes of the High School. You can, therefore, see, Mr. Editor, how serious the question is to us. It is not the two hundred children now affected that we have to think of, but the whole of our future is involved in this question. We cannot afford to take any other attitude than the one we have taken.

We ask ourselves this question: What can be the object behind this movement? Can it be the intention to prevent us securing an English education so that our children can be permanently ignorant so that they may remain laborers to be exploited? Being made ignorant of the language we will be unable to take our part by the side of other Canadians, and we will then be pointed out as those who refuse to learn the customs or social life of the country. In fact, refusal to assimilate it will have been forgotten by then that it was not because we did not want to learn, but because certain narrow-minded autocrats have taken upon themselves the responsibility of preventing our learning.

Children who come from China to acquire an English education have the ambition, upon completing their education, to return to China where the country is just awakening to the meaning of Occidental civilization. The present trend of China, according to latest reports, shows an average of fifteen shillings per head, as compared to Belgium of £78 per head, per annum. The opportunities, therefore, for development in commerce are tremendous, and any Chinese having a decent education will find unlimited chances there, so that there will be no inducement to stay in this country. Yet as the children born in China and now seeking education here have paid their head tax of $500 each, they must perform remain here as laborers if Canada wants it. Is this what Canada wants?

It has been reported in the local press yesterday and today that there have been plebeians at the English school. I wish emphatically to contradict it, as it is absolutely untrue. If any children were at the schools looking on, it could only be from curiosity. The Chinese are not organized to that extent. They are conscious that they are helpless so far as their own efforts are concerned, when against an unreasoning and autocratic board. They are conscious that for any redress they must depend upon the sympathy and good will of that board, and the good will of that board is the only way to enjoy the privilege of the franchise, and upon its sense of British justice, fair play, and "playing the game." They are, therefore, not likely to take any action which is likely to antagonize anyone, much less those whose influence and sympathy they need. They are taxpayers; the politicians say that it is the will of the British people and Canadians that they shall be deprived of the ordinary rights of citizenship. They must bear their cross until such times as a general election arises which have a more Christian sense of justice.

In conclusion I would appeal to the citizens who have children to put their heads together, and ask them if they would have accepted the edict of the School Board in similar circumstances if reversed to affect their own children. All we ask is the practice of the Golden Rule.

Aid for Farmers

Sir,—Judging from farmers who have bought land on payments, they state they are having no rosy time, considering low price of wheat and grains and high price of everything else in Manitoba. Colonization companies are asking Government assistance in their plans to settle newcomers, and immigrants are invited to come to Canada from Europe at the same time a stream of emigrants is leaving Canada headed south to the United States. One of Canada's sons kept at home is better than a number of foreigners from Europe. People speak lightly about new settlers, etc., as if the newcomer, once here, grain begins to grow around him, whereas the truth is it takes time to make a farm, even in a kinder climate than is found east of the Rockies.

As a proof of the difficulties confronting the established farmer, with no pioneer work to be done, the aforementioned letters explain. The serious question to face is, how can Canada keep her count from leaving their homelands and how best to make farming worth while? Considering farmers do not think they get their share, what is to hinder them doing less work and growing smaller acreage? Our food supply depends wholly on the farmer, and he, not being protected, competes with the world, while the titled heads of machinery companies are protected by a tariff which shelters the company, so that farm implements cost more to the grain grower. The grain grower, distrustful friends, forms a Progressive society and wildly strikes out like a swimmer out of sight of land. This morning's paper says the (Farmer's party) wants the Government of Canada to issue paper money and not allow the banks to do it. This means that Canada from coast to coast is back of every banknote issued. No one could question that security.

The letters this morning refer to hail damage to crops in the locality where it was written. Why should not the Government take a fraternal interest in the grain grower and value his damage, if any, and pay him for his crop; and about prices for grain which threaten all the farmer asks for is a fair price. Suppose the Government agreed that a minimum price to the farmer should be $1 per bushel at the home railway station; that is, the Government guaranteed that price, and handled the wheat itself, and even then it need lose nothing, for it would make the speculator's profit for handling. As it now stands the farmer works hard all the year in all weathers, from 80 in the shade to 80 below zero, and gets nothing beyond a living, and sometimes is in debt for that. The land owner does not even get taxes in some cases, while speculators who handle the grain become millionaires. There is another advantage to a stated price of $1 or over per bushel as a minimum price, and that is there would be no need to spend money in helping colonization companies to bring settlers to settle among their holdings, and the young men leaving the United States might be induced to farm in Canada. It would be interesting to ascertain what a bushel of wheat the farmer sells at 75 cents is worth when sold as bread. A bushel of wheat is 60 pounds. Surely the grower would be robbing nobody if he got $1 when compared to the bushel as bread.

A Free Port

Sir,—Every country should have at least one free port. A free port should be a first port of call and as isolated as possible.

Victoria is unusually well located for a free port, and it is a necessary requirement for a first-class free port. More shipping is entering and departing today from Hamburg than in 1913.

Very few persons know what the functions of a free port are, or how far-reaching are its benefits. Enlighten them. Would you mind starting the ball rolling to place Victoria on the map as a free port?

Are there no persons or combinations of persons with sufficient public spirit and influence to put this thing through?

All free ports are prospering. Do we want to prosper, or do we want to wait until Canada forces it upon us?

Dr. Hadwen's Theories

Sir,—As the editorial on Dr. Hadwen, in your issue of the 10th inst., attributes to him statements that he never made, and misrepresents his lectures, I feel compelled to state that the writer of the article was not present at the meeting of Friday last.

Dr. Hadwen did not come here to tell us how to cure disease, but to tell us how to prevent it, and to great deal, advising them to avoid vaccination, inoculation and other processes. The object of his coming here was to expose and denounce vivisection in all its forms.

It is pleasurable to know that "he appeals to sympathy in mankind" and that he is not a "man of experiment." It is somewhat to his credit that he condemns certain practices and he offers something in exchange which he advances as a great deal, advising them to avoid vaccination, inoculation and other processes. The object of his coming here was to expose and denounce vivisection in all its forms.

It is somewhat to his credit that he condemns certain practices and he offers something in exchange which he advances as a great deal, advising them to avoid vaccination, inoculation and other processes. The object of his coming here was to expose and denounce vivisection in all its forms.

held in this city, Dr. Chowry Muthu (famous Medical Superintendent of the Mendip Hills Sanatorium) was quoted as a great authority on tuberculosis. Yet, in a book he has just published, he says authority says: "We have lingered long enough at the milestone of bacteriology. . . . In the growing light of these sciences (biochemistry and sociology) we can no longer be satisfied with microbes and other theories which did duty a generation ago."

No one has yet proved that "of all the enemies of life and health the most potent are germs." Dr. Hadwen, from first to last, is an advocate of sanitary and hygienic measures. He does not deny the presence of germs, but claims that they are the result, not the cause, of disease. By what authority does anyone claim that they are greater enemies to life and health than any other agency? This is a mere assumption without any scientific basis.

Dr. Hadwen does, for very good reasons, meditate the theories of Pasteur and Jenner. He is fully conversant with the history of his profession in this and former eras. The fact that hydrophobia increased after Pasteur introduced his method of treatment is too well known to be disputed. Jenner and Pasteur come in the same category. They both introduced disease.

Why, in order to carry Dr. Hadwen's theories to a logical conclusion, would it be wrong to destroy germs? The object of sanitation is to get rid of fifth, get rid of fifth and you get rid of disease.

As to vaccination having been shown "to be a preventive of disease," the proof has never been forthcoming. Dr. Hadwen quoted the great rise in smallpox cases after increased vaccination. Thus, after a compulsory measure in 1922, came an epidemic of smallpox in 1922-23, with 14,000 deaths. A strong measure in 1923-24, produced another epidemic in 1924-25, with 20,000 deaths. While an even more stringent measure in 1925-26, followed by an epidemic with 44,800 deaths, and yet 98 1/2% of the population were vaccinated. As to the situation were vaccinated in 1926-27, this was one of the strongest arguments in his favor, for out of 1,979 cases, 1,211 (nearly two-thirds) had been vaccinated. One naturally wonders what protection against smallpox vaccination could have been.

Dr. Hadwen does not stand alone in his theories. He is supported by a number of men in his own profession, though it might be pointed out that majorities are not always right. Dr. Hadwen also emphatically states his opinion as to not denouncing the medical profession as such, though he deplores the fact that they accept authority without question. He does not believe in curing disease by the principle of vivisection and he will ever do so. The whole tendency of the time is to keep the public ignorant of facts which Dr. Hadwen and his followers make public.

No man could be more selfless in the work he undertakes than Dr. Hadwen himself, and he is only being criticized. The splendid speech made from the floor of the hall on Friday last by the speaker, a voice of thanks to Dr. Hadwen who had dared "to be a Daniel." It is a pity that those persons who desire to criticize Dr. Hadwen's speech did not come forward and take part in a public discussion, as they were invited to do.

Cemetery Planning

Sir,—It is with regret that I learn that the Cemetery Committee has decided to bring a Seattle man for the cemetery work.

I consider it an insult to Victoria and Canada to think that we are not capable of doing our own work.

The cardinal principles of landscape architecture are the same the world over: It is the application of them, whether they be applied to park, garden or cemetery, I doubt if the Cemetery Committee could tell what constitutes the making of a beautiful cemetery. Truly, a prophet is nothing thought of in his own land.

Give local men a chance. They might introduce something new, instead of always running to the United States for the same old stereotyped way of doing things.

Disabilities

Sir,—I am within an hour or so of leaving the city for a few weeks, and therefore write briefly and hurriedly, but I desire to say how heartily I endorse your leading article of a few days ago on "Disabilities," and Mr. W. G. York's letter in yesterday's issue of The Colonist.

It appears to me that the proposal to put the heavy disability cases in the local Red Cross workshop on a basis of "piecework" is not in accordance with the Government policy as previously outlined, and must handicap the mental and physical improvement of the men. I would like to ask: "Were the men affected by this change of attitude consulted? Are they satisfied? Has an endeavor been made in reason to meet their wishes?" If the authorities recognize the principle of curative treatment, the proposed alterations are hardly calculated to bring it about. Mercy and justice demand that consideration, carried to the furthest limit of reasonableness, should be extended to these tragic men.

HIGHER ESTIMATE OF WHEAT PRODUCTION

OTTAWA, Oct. 11.—Canada's official estimate of wheat production for 1922 issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and based on conditions at the end of August, was 288,773,000 bushels, as against 300,858,100 bushels last year.

Subsequent estimates it is believed, will tend to increase these figures considerably, as conditions in the wheat-growing areas subsequent to September 1 were very favorable to heavy yields.

PLANNING PROGRAMME FOR Y. M. C. A. GALA

Boys of City to Compete in Events in Association's Tank on October 21—Native Sons' Cup Contest

The programme for the annual Y. M. C. A. Boys' Swimming Gala, to be held in the Y.M.C.A. tank on Saturday, October 21, commencing at 7:30, is now being arranged. This aquatic affair has been staged at the Gorge several times, but this year it was decided to hold it indoors.

The outstanding feature of the gala will be the competition for the Native Sons' Challenge Cup, open to any boy in the city under eighteen years of age. The winner of the trophy each year is the lad securing the highest total of points in the following events: Fifty-yard and two hundred yard races, plunge for distance, and diving. The Cup is put up for competition each year. Its winner is given a medal presented by the Native Sons, and the winners in the individual Cup events are also given prizes.

For boys under fifteen years of age there will be forty yard and hundred and twenty yard events, diving, and a race for the Beaver Lake campers of 1922. For the latter race there will be a special prize of a Y. M. C. A. membership.

For boys under thirteen there will be a relay race between the best four swimmers among the employed boys of the Y.M.C.A. and the best four among the school boys will take place.

There will be an exhibition swimming race for style, this event being open to all boys of the city under eighteen years of age.

An exhibition water polo match between boys' teams is being arranged. There will also be a novelty race, details of which will be announced later.

There will be suitable prizes given for all events.

BUS-JITNEY FIGHT COMES INTO COURT

TWO UNLICENSED SOLDIER DRIVERS SUMMONED

Sancti By-Law Controversy as to Gorge Road Traffic Aired Before Magistrate Jay

The Gorge Road bus-versus-jitney controversy, which lately agitated the Sanction Municipal Council, was fought all over again in a legal arena yesterday, when T. Cooper, Peter S. Lanchick and Lionel Soday, two of whom are veterans, and all drivers of jitneys, were before Magistrate Jay in the Sanction Police Court, charged with unlawfully operating motor vehicles on the Gorge Road, in contravention of the recently enacted Municipal By-Law, No. 284.

Mr. F. C. Elliott, who is defending the jitney-men, announced that the cases would be made a test of the validity of the enactment. His contention is that the by-law is invalid; and is the creation of an illegal monopoly of transportation on the Gorge Road, in favor of Mr. Eric Hamilton, of the Gorge Motor Bus Company, who holds the three licenses to which the by-law limits the Gorge Road route.

Extra Municipal Session

By way of thoroughly probing the history of the by-law, Mr. Elliott subpoenaed Reeve George Watson and all the members of Sanction Council, as well as Mr. Hector Cooper, clerk of the council. Mr. H. B. Robertson, K.C., counsel for the municipality, was of opinion that his learned friend was asking a council meeting in the courtroom; and Magistrate Jay thought they would all there for a month, if they had to plumb the ultimate depths of each councillor in turn. Mr. Elliott could not help it if they did all there for a month, he said; he was doing what he thought was necessary to show how this by-law, which he held to be a nefarious enactment, came into existence.

Thomas Cooper, a veteran of the Great War, the first of the defendant jitney-men to be tried, amused the court with a frank statement of the way he had lately contrived to operate his Ford car. He told all his passengers who boarded him within the Sanction limits that they were his guests until they reached the city limits.

"Then they became paying passengers. Your Honor," said Mr. Cooper.

Mr. Robertson—That was your way of beating the by-law.

Mr. Cooper—Not beating it, sir; evading it.

Buses Get All Licenses

Mr. Hector S. Cooper, municipal clerk, was called by Mr. Elliott to show that the by-law had been framed subsequent to a letter sent to the council by Mr. Eric Hamilton, in which the latter complained of the jitney competition with his bus line, and asked for regulation of the traffic. Mr. Cooper said that the by-law came into existence partly as a result of this letter.

It was shown that Cooper had applied for a license, after the passage of the by-law, and had been refused. The license was refused to Cooper, as well as to other applicants, because the by-law was framed to limit the licensed vehicles plying for hire on the Gorge Road to three; and all the three licenses had been issued in favor of Mr. Hamilton. Mr. Cooper said that the Council had had no fault to find with the character of the defendant Cooper.

The Rival Petitions

It was also adduced in evidence that 200 persons signed the petition to the council in favor of the buses while 130 names were attached to that in favor of the jitneys. Mr. Elliott wanted to know if the first petition, the one which had been behind the other in respect of numbers, and that when the jitneys were found to be getting the votes, an S.O.C. had not been issued for more names for the buses.

Mr. Cooper retorted that as far as that went it would appear that many of the names on the jitney-men's petition were those of children or non-residents of the district.

Councillor Robert Macnicol, who has defended the rights of the returned-soldier jitney-men throughout the entire controversy, was the only one of the elected municipal officers called upon to give evidence. He strongly asserted that a monopoly had been created by granting to Mr. Hamilton the only three licenses permitted by the by-law on the Gorge Road. In his opinion, one of the unstated reasons why the buses on the Gorge Road could not survive free competition with the ex-soldier jitneys was that the said buses were rapidly becoming mere junk heaps.

An Unjust Monopoly.

He absolved his fellow councillors from any suspicion of unworthy motives in the framing of the by-law. But if he had known how the thing was to be ultimately arranged, he would have favored throwing the route open to all who cared to engage in the business. He had first of all proposed that the route should be limited to six vehicles; and, in answer to Mr. Robertson, he was prepared to concede that it might be reasonable to limit the number of vehicles plying there for hire.

"But not in the way this has been done," concluded Mr. Macnicol. "To restrict the license to three buses and to issue those three licenses to one bus proprietor, was the creation of an unjust monopoly."

The cases were adjourned until Friday, when argument of counsel, which will largely turn upon the validity of the by-law, will be heard by Magistrate Jay. Mr. Elliott implied by his conduct of the defence that the jitney-men were prepared to carry the issue to the final arbitration of the higher courts.

PALESTINE ARABS DEMAND INDEPENDENCE

JERUSALEM, Oct. 11.—Unless immediate independence is granted to Palestine, the establishment of a national Arab government and the withdrawal of the British declaration favoring the Jewish homeland, he must not presume to speak for the Arabs of Palestine.

This warning is contained in cable dispatches by the Arab leaders here to the Emir, who is now in London negotiating with the British Government regarding the future of his country.

The Arab executive contemplates sending a delegation of Palestine Arabs to the Near East conference, in the hope of securing a revision of Zionist policy.

CHIEF JUSTICE GIVES REASON OF DECISION

Majority Judgment of Court of Appeal Gives Local Italian Benefits Under Roudy Will

The decision of the Court of Appeal, recently reported in these columns, by which Frank Police is confirmed in his rights to the $15,000 left him by the will of Franklin Roudy, an aged Vancouver prospector, was a reversal of the Supreme Court judgment of Mr. Justice Gregory, who held that probate of the will must be denied because Police had exercised undue control over the mind of Roudy. The Court of Appeal decision was that of a majority of the court, Mr. Justice Martin and Mr. Justice Gauthier dissenting. The written judgment of Chief Justice Macdonald is as follows:

I am convinced that the deceased was quite capable of making the will which is questioned in this action. It is true that the learned trial Judge came to a different conclusion, but I think on careful consideration of the case it will be seen that his conclusion is based upon inference drawn from facts and circumstances which were either not in dispute or which had been sufficiently established. In such a case the Appellate Court is in just as good a position to draw inferences as was the trial Judge whose opinion I differ from with great respect.

I agree with the learned trial Judge when he says that some of the medical evidence is not entirely satisfactory, because conclusions rather than evidence are stated. That is true of all the medical evidence. It is true of the evidence of Dr. Frazer, the attending physician as well as of others who were not attending physicians. With regard to Dr. Frazer's evidence, it must be remembered that he is a very busy practitioner, and that his attendance on the deceased was two years before the date of trial. His recollection therefore is not very clear. He says bluntly that the deceased was not, at the time the will was made, competent to make a valid will, but that opinion is not founded on any clear indication of incompetency. Of course if this pronouncement were conclusive there would be no necessity for Courts of Justice examining the evidence. Most of the medical evidence in the category of expert evidence and subject to the observations to which such evidence is open. To my mind the evidence of such a man as G. J. Naden, who knew the deceased for many years before his stroke, is much more valuable than the evidence of physicians given in the manner in which the medical evidence was given in this case. Having known the deceased when there was no question of the soundness of his mind, Mr. Naden was in a position to detect a change, if any, in that condition resulting from his stroke of paralysis. There is no question prior to the stroke that the deceased was perfectly competent to make a will. After the stroke his condition was that of physical infirmity, not of mental disease. After he had been in the hospital some days and had begun to think of the future and of his property, the deceased had been previously known and had been befriended by the appellant, asked the appellant to procure for him a notary as he wished to make his will. A notary was procured who was not therefore even acquainted with the appellant. The will was prepared on the instructions of the deceased, who gave a clear and accurate statement of what he possessed and where it was, part being in the United States and part in Canada. He gave that part, valued at about $15,000, which was in the United States to his sister who lived in Massachusetts, and that part which was in Canada, valued at about $15,000, he gave to the appellant. Undue influence, as appellant's part is also set up. There is to my mind no evidence, worthy of consideration, of undue influence, but in order to procure the setting aside of the will on this ground an attempt was made not only to blast the character of the appellant, but that of the notary who drew the will, although there is nothing on which to base it except suspicion, which can always be called up in cases of this kind.

The sister of the deceased was very much commended as a witness by the learned trial Judge, but while she may be a most estimable woman, her evidence is not a deciding factor in the case. It is the kind of evidence that is apt to lead the mind astray. Her inference drawn from her brother's actions, in the presence of several persons when fondling the appellant's little girl, is to say the least, a most uncharitable one to draw from the circumstances as set forth in the evidence.

Without going minutely into detail, I wish to say that the evidence conveys to my mind the impression of a disinclination on the part of the deceased to put himself under the control of this sister. Whatever may have been the relationship between the deceased and his relatives for the forty-five years during which he was separated from them, there was no evidence in the shape of letters, though such were alleged to have passed between him and his sister, to show the state of feeling which actually existed between them. The sister appealed to the courts when she failed to persuade her brother to go home with her, and after perfunctory examinations of the deceased, an order was made and the sister took him to her home. He lived for more than a year after this and the evidence is that he was quite well aware that he had made the will and had given the bequest in question to the appellant, yet he did not revoke the will or make any change in the disposition of his property. The suggestion is that the sister did not wish to ask this owing to his condition, but that suggestion, in my opinion, is not entitled to very much weight. I would allow the appeal and decree probate of the will.

J. A. MACDONALD, C.J.A. Victoria, B.C., October 3, 1922.

respect of injuries received outside the grocery store of the defendant at Cook and Fort Streets.

The plaintiff alleged that while passing the store she was run into and knocked down by James Evans, employed in the store, who was unloading a truck. She sustained a broken thigh as a result of the collision, and medical evidence was adduced to show that she would be a cripple for life. The defence was that the collision was a pure accident, and was as much the fault of the plaintiff as of the defendant. Evans, Mr. Adams was joined as a defendant in the suit as the employer of Evans.

Mr. A. D. Cross appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Frank Higgins, K.C., for the defendants.

What Science has done for Baby's Sleep

YOU will sometimes hear a Mother say "Baby sleeps all night long"—as though the simple fact of not waking up is all that is to be desired.

Modern science knows better. The kind of sleep Baby gets is as important as the amount of sleep itself. A crib that does not help Baby's delicate body to grow in the way it should—is only one small degree better than a fretful crib. Simmons Cribs are built for sleep. But more than that they are designed for the right kind of sleep.

With deep knowledge of the science of sleep the spine is supported naturally—normal circulation is ensured—the nerves and muscles relaxed.

HISTORY OF CANADA GIVEN IN REVUE

Mr. T. W. Cornett Speaks to Young People's Forum of Metropolitan Methodist Church

Before a large attendance of members and friends of the Young People's Forum of Metropolitan Methodist Church, Mr. T. W. Cornett, on Monday evening, gave a racy and instructive resume of the history of Canada for the last four centuries, making it the groundwork for a study of missionary problems in Canada which the young people of this organization are now entering upon.

Miss Middleton, convener of the missionary committee, in introducing the speaker, expressed the opinion that as a nation Canada has missionary problems as important as any of the kind abroad, and that the young people of today would do well to take this matter to heart in addition to assisting development along other lines.

Mr. Cornett, in stating that as a people Canada owed a great deal to the early pioneers who had given the country so much of the freedom she enjoys today, declared that Canadians must now go on living the golden rule in their lives and show oriental and Anglo-Saxon friendship alike that Canadians can be the real Christians they profess to be. The need of today was for solidarity and not popularity, said the speaker, in public thought and undertakings.

Pacific Problem

Alluding to some of the problems facing us today, Mr. Cornett remarked that so far as the Pacific problem is concerned, if as a nation Canada does the Christian thing there will be no trouble on the Pacific. He urged young people to seize the first opportunity that came to them to travel, to "go and see something," stating that there was a danger of all being too provincial or narrow in their outlook, thus inspiring efficiency. Notwithstanding shortcomings, "we are Canadians and we have a great future," concluded the speaker.

During the opening devotional period of the meeting Miss Garbutt gave a brief and instructive talk, while later the audience was favored with a solo rendered by Miss Louise Noble.

It was announced that on Monday evening next the meeting would take the form of an illustrated lecture. The speaker will be Mr. F. Napier Denison, and his subject is "The Weather and Storms of North America." Some very interesting lantern slides will be presented on the screen.

ANGUS CAMPBELL SHOWS MODES

Mannequins From Well-Known Firm Display Fashion's Latest Whim at Capitol Theatre Last Night

With a perfection of arrangements, and with models of that distinctive quality and beauty which is always associated with the firm of Angus Campbell & Co., the Fall Fashion Show which was staged last night at the Capitol Theatre was outstanding in its complete success. A crowded house attended the first night's performance, when lovely evening gowns and handsome wraps were displayed and it is interesting to note that this evening another scene will be put on, displaying suits, coats and afternoon frocks, also millinery from the Crown Millinery Parlors. The audience last night was most enthusiastic in its generous applause, many of the charming mannequins creating spontaneous approval, which was evinced by prolonged hand-clapping.

The stage setting of the Capitol Theatre is excellent as a background for the models, and under the direction of Mrs. V. Bellby a delightful little scene was enacted. Prior to the showing of the fashions, the curtain rose on a large basket of autumn leaves, from out of which stepped little Miss Gloria Wilson, dressed in white-silk net, with bandeau of flowers around her head, and carrying in her tiny hand a basket of autumn leaves, tied with a tulle bow. Descending the steps of the stage, this youthful danseuse performed an appealing pas seul, scattering with a lavish hand the leaves and bringing into her light little dancing steps the grace and abandon of childhood, which were readily encouraged and appreciated by the audience. Closing her dance with a sleepy yawn and stretching her arms, little Gloria lay down on the carpet composed of the leaves she had distributed, as the curtain fell.

Soiree Musicale

The next scene took the form of a soiree musicale, at which Mrs. Bellby was the hostess and welcomed her guests the pretty mannequins. During the soiree Mrs. Allwood sang "Joyous Bird," and Miss Wilson and Mr. Victor Edmunds rendered in a most finished manner the famous duet from "Madame Butterfly." Those taking part in the Fashion Show were Mrs. Bellby, Miss Woodhouse, Miss Stuart, Miss Christie and Miss Knapton. Most of the mannequins are members of the staff of Angus Campbell & Co.

All the magnificence of the Winter evening gown was expressed in the frock worn by Mrs. Bellby, of black crepe satin in low-waisted style, with front panel of beaded net; the skirt was gracefully draped to the left side and caught with a handsome jet ornament, while the sleeves, composed of beaded net, were shaped in the modern fashion and finished with long jet tassels.

Suggests Grecian Style
With a suggestion of Grecian simplicity in cut, and lying in color with the plumage of some lovely tropical bird, was the gold brocade langleine velvet gown shown, with filmy sleeves of flowing georgette, edged with glistening bands, which were inspired many models this season, and continues to make itself felt more strongly in evening gowns than after-noon frocks. Another model which was greatly admired last night also showed Grecian treatment in a refreshing shade of maize-colored georgette, the sleeves were the chief point of interest, forming long panels which hung from behind the arms, and were caught at the wrists with iridescent beads in bracelet fashion.

Striking in its drapery, which gave the effect of unity, and showed the richness of the material, was a black panne velvet gown, the bones being of gold darned lace. The principal beauty of this creation lay in the exquisite lines which fashioned the back of the gown and the long train of black georgette which the wearer caught in her left hand. Immense poppies in black and white were worn at the side.

The spirit of the "jeune fille" was expressed in a white georgette and tulle lace dress, where Spanish tradition, which still finds favor with the modes of the present day, the designer, who allowed long panels of tulle lace to fall almost to the ground on either side, and depended solely on some hand-made chiffon flowers at the girdle for the touch of color. Sleeves of tulle lace completed the toilette. Silver scintillated through the folds of another frock of white satin, with long panels edged with silver beads, and the design was furthered by silver flowers at the low waist line.

Emerald Green and Old Gold

Gorgeous in its coloring of emerald green and old gold panne velvet was one of the most striking creations shown, the artistically draped skirt giving a hint of the director's effect, beneath which was seen a gold satin underskirt. A wash of the richest gold tissue enhanced the elegance of the dress, which was caught at the waist with novel gold grapes. The brilliant light from the stage brought out the sheen of this material vividly.

Simple in appearance, yet complicated in many ways, was a gown of an indescribable color—just the least shade of mauve, and it is in that delicate mixture with orchid that the secret of the new color lies—made of corded French taffeta, with light bodice, shirred with innumerable shirings, and continuing into a flared skirt over a silver lace petticoat. The hem of the skirt also had bands of shirings, while a streamer of flowers fell from the waist on the left side.

The one-sidedness of the present mode was discernible in a gown of jade green and gold, which was gracefully draped to the left side of the waist, from whence fell a long train, caught at the wearer's wrist, and forming a draped effect. From the shoulder of the right side fell a long gold streamer of braid, which was attached to the other wrist.

Handsome Wraps
The evening wraps displayed carried out the conspicuous note of gorgeousness in the new mode, and were of an exceptionally handsome standard.

Enthusiastic applause greeted the appearance of a silvertone Martella wrap, with fine Kolinsky round collar and cuffs. The sleeves were fashioned in the new "jelly bag"

HUDSON'S BAYS SCORE RAPIDLY

Four Goals in Five Minutes Disposed of Fitz's Chances in Yesterday's League Soccer Game

The Wednesday League soccer game played at Royal Athletic Park yesterday afternoon between the Hudson's Bays and Fitz's clubs was rather remarkable for one thing, and that was the fact that, although the teams were playing the regulation forty-five minutes each way and the Bays won by four to nothing, all four of those goals were scored in a little over five minutes.

But for this calamitous lapse the Fitz players held the Bays down well for the remainder of the game, although the Bays certainly deserved to win.

For the first half-hour play was very even and each side did a fair share of attacking. At least two shots by Hudson's Bay players failed to score through a certain element of luck, both hitting the cross bar, but the goalie at the other end also had his busy times, and although the Bays were the better together and had better control of the ball, their opponents were playing aggressive football and working hard all the time.

It was Jimmy Allan who started the short but fruitful scoring spree.

He sent in the first goal of the match with a fine hard low shot after a pretty piece of work in which he brought the ball within shooting distance. Two minutes after that, another goal was scored, and one minute later the Bays managed to force the ball through the opposing backs into the net for the third goal. Just another two minutes and the Hudson's Bay forwards were back to the attack and yet another goal was registered.

This ended the scoring and for the rest of the period play was fairly even.

Come Back Strong

Fitz's team showed no signs of being disheartened and came back in the second half with no diminution in their aggressive play, although the Bays had the sun in their faces in this half, which may have made a little difference, try as they would they were unable to add to their score. The losers made a number of hard attacks, but none were pressed home to a successful conclusion and the Hudson's Bay goal had several narrow escapes, but their goalkeeper showed up well and in particular stopped one hot shot which looked like a certain score.

Fitz's team were in this half more often than the winners, but at present they lack the necessary cohesion and team work which will no doubt come after a game or two when the players get to know each other better. The Bays have the makings of a good team, and should be dangerous contenders for the final honors.

There was a fair attendance at yesterday's game, which was refereed by Stokes, the line-up being as follows:

Hudson's Bays—Dunn; Heaton and Smith (Captain); Woodley, Allan and Waude; Alcock, Stewart, Turner, Ingle and Rickerson.

Fitz's—Harber; Anderson and Clark; Bowden, Sharlock (Captain) and Woods; Sharratt, Robbins, Clark, Johnson and Lynn.

WEILERS DEFEAT GARRISON TEAM

Score Two Goals to Nil in Wednesday Soccer Game—Both Tallies Registered in Second Half

Weilers' football team, last year's Wednesday League champions, showed that they will need some watching in this year's race for the Pendry Cup by defeating the Garrison yesterday at Beaton Hill in the tune of two to nil, but not until the second half did the winners break through the Tommies' defence and score the two goals which gave them an undisputed victory.

From the kick-off the Garrison pressed the opposing goal quite heavily, but their attempts were all cut aside by a sound defensive work of the Weilers backs and goalies, and, try as they would, it was impossible to register. This attack on the Weiler goal did not last long, and it was now that the Garrison defence was given quite a warm time stopping the onrush of the fast Weiler forwards and only good work on the part of the Tommies' defence saved them from an early defeat. In the first half Weilers seemed to have the best of the game and only stopped by an occasional breakaway of the Garrison forwards the eventual winners kept sending in hot shots for the opposing goal to save.

Good Work in Goal

Time and time again when a score for the Weilers team seemed certain, Waggett, the Tommies' goalie, would get in the way of the shot. When the game had been going about twenty minutes, Livingstone sent in a shot which was not on target, in position to kick the ball into the net. About five minutes later this player duplicated this work and sent a goal which was not on target, in position to kick the ball into the net. The second half

After half time the Tommies came back with renewed energy and for a while they seemed to have the upper hand, but without success. When the second half of the game was well under way, Huxleton, one of the Tommies, was now fighting like a Trojan in an endeavor to break into the scoring column, but try as they would they could not put the ball into the opposing net.

With about ten minutes to go Sweeton made the victory more certain for his team when he sent in a hot shot from the goal area, which the Garrison goalie made a good attempt to save, but without success. With their victory practically assured, Weilers played a defensive game and the Tommies gave them quite a hot time in their last endeavor to save themselves from a whitewash, but the final whistle sounded with no further scoring.

For the winners Copas and Newman, as backs, were quite a source of worry to the Garrison forwards, and frequently saved the situation for their team. Baker, in goal, and Livingstone on the wing, also showed up well for their team. For the Garrison, Waggett in goal and Armstrong at back, played good ball. Percy Payne refereed, and the teams were as follows:

Weilers—W. M. Baker; Copas and Newman; Hall, Sweeton and Baker; Sweetest, Fletcher, Hay, Peden and Livingstone.

Garrison—Waggett; Spiers and Armstrong; Ward, Davies and Carvosso; Cummings, Mitchell, Coulter, Biss and Huxleton.

LIGHT DRAGOON WINS BIG RACE

Hundred to One Shot Is First Past Post in Cesarewitch—Thirty-One Faced Starter in Autumn Classic

LONDON, Oct. 11.—One of the biggest upsets in racing form that has occurred this season took place this afternoon at Newmarket, when Captain Forester's four-year-old gelding, Light Dragoon, starting at 100 to 1 against, won the Cesarewitch stakes, one of the greatest of the Autumn handicaps. Second place also went to an outsider, Anthony de Rothschild's four-year-old, The Villager, quoted at 40 to 1 against, beaten for first place by a nose.

Ceylonese, a three-year-old colt, owned by Sir A. Baily, quoted at 10 to 1, finished in third place, beaten by three lengths. The field was one of the largest in recent years, 31 going to the post.

There was but little trouble at the post and the big field got off to a good start. Turning into the straight, Herod Phillip, with R. Jones up, was leading the field, but Pryor soon took Light Dragoon out in front, followed by Ceylonese, Charles and The Villager. Close to home, The Villager challenged, but was unable to overhaul Light Dragoon, who won cleverly, with Ceylonese three lengths behind in third place. Hunt Law finished fourth.

List of Starters

Other starters were: Double Hackle, Flint Jack, Ballyheron, Arravale, Halberdier, Velvet Glove, Lifeboat III, Brinklow, Hopeful Bachelor, Backwood, Sandhedrin, Savile Row, Lerol, Baller Hon, Mismast, Buckle, Cottage, Weather-tide, Silver Crest, Spa, Tishy, Double Glory and Vaddy.

Light Dragoon, who is by Charles O'Malley out of Queen's Parade, went all through last season up until the final week without winning a race, when at Warwick, in November, he managed to win a maiden three-year-old plate. During the present season he had not figured in any of the more important races, and his win today, over the long and hard 2 1/4 mile course is his first of any importance.

Run continuously since 1833, the race was named after the then heir to the Russian throne. Its value to the winner is about £7,500.

PET SMUGGLERS ARE TOO ACTIVE

SHIPPING LINES DISCOURAGE BIRD AND ANIMAL CARGOES

Direct Trade in Monkeys and Song-birds Declared to be Costly Nuisance by Companies

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The United Fruit and other lines have instituted a rigorous system to prevent smuggling in live birds and animals which have been smuggled in by the hundreds to supply the New York market for pets.

Importation of birds and animals is not forbidden, but quarantine regulations are so strict, and the difficulty in handling a shipment of monkeys, parrots and miscellaneous birds and animals is so great, that the ship companies often refuse to transport them at any price. Sometimes they name so great a figure that the pet dealer cannot meet it. This condition, together with the disinclination of the world's pet market, which formerly was in the hands of Germans, is responsible for the enormous prices of pets at retail.

Shipping lines discourage the introduction of pets by their owners, because sailors frequently have been caught smuggling them aboard to feed their importations on the way back. Besides it had been found that a sailor with a collection of tiny monkeys or a box full of songbirds kept so busy nursing them that he has no time to work. There is a fee of $25 for inspecting any shipment of animals, however small, at quarantine, and this requirement naturally is evaded with regularity by seamen who are in the pet business as a side line.

One of the most popular pets is the marmoset, a microscopic simian, which is frequently smuggled by members of crews returning from South America and Mexican ports. A sailor can come ashore with enough of these homeopathic monkeys in his sleeves to supply a zoo.

Whole World Combed
"More than once a sailor has come in here with a derby hat," said George H. Holden, a dealer at 21st Street and Fifth Avenue. "In his derby the sailor had as high as five marmosets."

There is a regular supply business which combs the world for pets, but it works erratically today, because American and British firms in the pet and zoo business have not organized the industry on the scale on which the Germans formerly operated it. The big pet regions are China and Japan, the centres of goldfish breeding, the Harz Mountains in Germany, where canaries and other pets are raised, and South America and Mexico, which supply the American market with the parrot tribe and other tropical birds. Mexico has lost its place as a producer of birds and monkeys, because buyers who have entered that region in the past few years have too often been stripped by bandits of money, clothes, and pets.

VESSEL'S VICTORIA CARGO IS DAMAGED

SEATTLE, Oct. 11.—Col. M. J. M. Nash, Pacific Coast agent of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, was today advised that a fire in No. 4 hold of the Cardiganville, en route here from North Europe, has been extinguished with slight loss. The freight damaged was for Victoria and Vancouver, the remainder being unharmed.

birds and animals. They are protected there from drafts, changes of weather or passengers. A trip in an empty icebox with a multitude of parrots, cockatoos, toucans, variegated tropical birds with violent and harassing cries, not to mention half a dozen varieties of monkeys and other animals, and the difficulty in keeping them all fed, watered, nursed and protected from one another—a trip with these creatures is a memorable experience. Pet buyers find it difficult to break in and appreciate to convince youngsters of the attractions of this career.

ling-tailed monkeys are smuggled in now and then, because they are the most popular of the monkey tribe. They are easily trained, are desirably small and come in shades blonde, brunette, and grey, so that they can be matched to costumes or complements.

Who Little Parrots
The parrot business is not particularly profitable, because parrots are centenarians, and families which have once purchased a young one may not see it again for four generations. According to the United States Biological Survey, parrots have achieved an age of 137 years. According to Mr. Holden, the number of parrots sold by his grandfather, who founded the business more than half a century ago, are still with the same families, and are pets of the grandchildren or great-grandchildren of the original purchasers. Some old parrots spring surprises on their owners after many years.

The ordinary way of determining the sex of a parrot is its attitude to children," said Mr. Holden. "If it likes boys more than girls, it is a female, and if it likes girls better, it is a male. They have an instinct for telling age and sex. Even savage old parrots which will strike furiously at the fingers of an adult will never nip a child."

Sometimes, after twenty or thirty years without incident, a parrot will startle everybody by laying an egg. A customer telephoned to us a short time ago and said:

"We have had to change Jack's name. He has been Jack with us for twenty-seven years, but yesterday he laid an egg."

Can Detect Airplane
By living on Fifth Avenue, the toucan has developed a new power. This bird has always been able to detect the approach of a thunderstorm. Something about its half-pint bill may respond to the electric in the air. At any rate, it gives a penetrating musical call when thunder is brewing. The toucan is gregarious and this is a warning to its collector. Recently, a collector discovered the faculty that of detecting airplanes miles away. Long before a human being can detect the faintest purring of a motor, the toucan is calling frantically. As a rule, a few minutes later, the airplane motor comes within the hearing of humans in the same vicinity. The toucan has not always been sensitive to the noise of automobile motors on Fifth Avenue, but it may be too well broken in to them. The evolutionary origin of this response to air vibrations may have been in the development of a sense of detecting the approach of enemies in the air, big predatory birds which slaughtered the toucan. Why the toucan ever cultivated its gigantic bill is one of the puzzles at which biologists have guessed in vain.

VESSELS GO WRONG WHEN MEN STRIKE
CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Since the strike of union seamen on the Great Lakes freight boats October 1, four boats have collided in the Lake Erie section, two of which are still aground, and three other are stranded in the Detroit-St. Clair river, K. H. Nolan, secretary of the Great Lakes Seamen's Union, asserted today. Approximately 3,500 members of the union, which comprises nearly 4,000 members, have struck, he asserted.

PUBLIC AWAITS PREMIER'S WORD

Much Interest Held in His Speech at Manchester on Saturday—Little Expectation of His Resigning

LONDON, Oct. 11.—It is announced that Premier Lloyd George will speak at Manchester on Saturday in defence of the Near East policy of his Government. It is expected that the Premier will make a vigorous reply to his critics.

While it is stated in some quarters that Lloyd George may make a sensational announcement, foreshadowing his impending resignation in certain contingencies, the fact that Austen Chamberlain, leader of the Government in the House of Commons, speaks at Birmingham on Friday, and Winston Churchill, Colonial Secretary, at Dundee very shortly, is regarded as evidence that the Government is holding firmly together and organizing a counter-attack.

Not Resigning
In Liberal circles it is stated that there is no question of the resignation of Lloyd George, or an immediate general election. The Premier's resolve to speak on Saturday is taken as tending to confirm predictions indicated in previous cables that he has no immediate intention of resigning personally, or of dissolving his Government. What line the Premier will take at Manchester it is impossible to forecast. One newspaper, favoring to the Premier, suggests that his Saturday speech may partake of a manifesto recognizing the new situation rather than an apology for present happenings.

Bonar Law's position naturally arouses considerable curiosity. (Gideon Murray, M.P. for a Glasgow division, who recently quit the coalition.

thinks the time has arrived when Bonar Law should come out into the open. Similar expressions of opinion are voiced by other Unionists, who hold back on the question of deserting the Lloyd George ministry.

Against this there is a strong feeling that Bonar Law will never assist in displacing Austen Chamberlain as leader of the Unionists, while it is further held that Mr. Chamberlain and Viscount Birkenhead, Lord High Chancellor, will stand or fall with the Premier. Bonar Law, moreover, although in better health than for a long time past, would probably run grave personal risk in undertaking the strain of politics at the present time.

Busy Speculating
The announcement in the ministerial organs that a general election was a practical certainty before Christmas and that Premier Lloyd George would open the campaign with a fighting speech at Manchester on Saturday, has created a great deal of speculation in the Near Eastern situation from its position of prominence in the newspapers and has raised the political temperature, while heat with startling rapidity.

The Government's opponents, particularly the Labor party, are delighted with the prospects of a fight at the polls, and the campaign machinery of all parties has already put on full speed in preparation for the struggle.

Thus far the Premier has not indicated publicly what line he proposes taking, and the newspapers this afternoon were filled with speculation on this point. Some of the writers express the opinion that he will attempt to continue the coalition, while others think he will return to party politics and make a stand with one of the established organizations. In some quarters it is maintained that Mr. Lloyd George will emulate Mr. Bonar Law and form a new progressive party, which would more closely represent his views than any of the old factions. The Premier, however, is sitting tight for the moment, and the only thing apparent, according to his close friends, is that he is full of fight and has no intention of surrendering without a struggle.

National Agent Wake, of the Labor party, declares that the party hopes to put at least four hundred candidates in the field in the next general election.

Guardian's Welcome
The Manchester Guardian, opposed as long as it has been to Premier Lloyd George, extends to him a cordial welcome to the City of Manchester, where the Premier is to speak on Saturday in defence of the Near East policy of his Government. The Guardian says Lloyd George has plenty of friends, even among those who often have occasion to condemn his action or policy. It suggests that it is significant that he has decided to address only a small assembly at the Reform Club, rather than a great popular assembly. "This is not the time for a popular appeal. It is a time for careful consideration and a clear statement of facts and issues; in a word, for an appeal to the intellect of the nation. We have barely escaped, if we have altogether escaped, a great danger. It is for the Premier to explain, and, so far as he can, justify the policy of the Government."

URGE LIGHTER SCHOOL LOAD FOR FARMERS

Representatives of Rural Districts of Esquimalt Pass Resolutions on Educational Affairs

Representatives of all the rural school districts in the Esquimalt electoral district met last Saturday at the Happy Valley Schoolhouse to give instructions to Dr. Felton, delegate to the School Trustees' convention at Penikese. Resolutions passed were as follows:

1. That the local school levy in rural school districts should be raised by the imposition of a tax on the incomes of all landowners and residents of the district of $500 or over, with a minimum payment of $5, and that this apply to all persons over the age of twenty-one years.

2. That the entire cost of education should be borne by the state up to the end of the primary school course.

3. That the cost of education in High, Superior and Normal schools should be borne, half by the state and half by the persons whose children directly benefit thereby.

4. That scholarships be offered by the Province. (a) To primary schools which shall entitle the winners to free education in High, Normal and Superior Schools. (b) To High, Normal and Superior Schools, for free courses in the University of British Columbia.

BOBBED HAIR HAS COME HERE TO STAY

Barbers Deny That It Is Merely Passing Fad—One Bright Spot in Recent Trade Trend

If the bobbed hair had passed, Victoria barbers have yet to be convinced of its passing.

They don't want to see it go either. Apart from the undoubted advantages of the short haircut, of course, to those of the gentler sex who have adopted it, this comparatively recent dictate of fashion has added not a little to the revenue of the city's tonsorial establishments at a time when the trade appeared to be at the entrance to a long period of depression.

The bobbed hair beauties still are coming in, and we are mighty glad to see them come," said a leading barber yesterday. "It means more business, of course, but it also brightens the atmosphere around here. The bobbed hair style has brought into existence a lot of beauty parlors that would otherwise have a hard time to keep alive, but the majority of the girls prefer to patronize the barbers' shops. They are charged one price here and they say they get just as satisfactory service. There was a time when the barbers were shy about this new development, but they are all expert bobbers now, and they accept the task as a matter of course. It's a poor day that doesn't bring in two or three girls to have their hair bobbed."

The barber business has passed into an entirely new era with the advent of the safely razor. Not many years ago the Victorian barbers thought nothing of shaving their customers a day. Now they count it a busy day when they shave eight or ten.

"I can remember when on Saturdays we would have a line-up outside the door of men who wanted a fifteen-cent shave and nothing more," recalled a veteran of the trade. "Those were the days, but they are gone forever. They used to be satisfied with having their beards ripped off and a coating of toilet water in those days, and journeyman barbers were satisfied with fifteen dollars a week."

The cut rate movement is growing in Victoria as elsewhere, but the union shops have not yet agreed upon a reduction in the price of hair cuts or shaves. Costs are still too high for that, they say.

At the Chicago convention of the Barber Shave Dealers' Association last week a new style of hair cut for men was described. It is called the "come back," and it lasts for only ten days. The cut consists in merely snipping off the outstanding hairs and smoothing the rest down with a comb that makes the appearance of a close cut.

"We haven't stopped to that," said a Victoria barber. "Probably we never will."

RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

Conditions Which Must Be Observed by Candidates for Prize Are Again Set Forth

The annual election of a Rhodes scholar to represent the Province of British Columbia at Oxford University will be made not later than November 25 of this year. The scholar elected this year will go to Oxford and take up his studies there in October, 1923.

The following are conditions under which candidates are eligible for the scholarship: A candidate must be a British subject, at least five years' residence in Canada, and unmarried. He must have passed his nineteenth birthday, but not have passed his twenty-fifth birthday, on October 1, 1922. He must be at least in his second year in some degree-granting university of Canada.

Under the terms set forth by Mr. Rhodes in his will, the committee of appointment must have regard not only to scholastic ability and attainments of candidates but also to their physical vigor, leadership, force of character, devotion to duty, courage, sympathy and other moral qualities.

The scholarship is of the annual value of £250 a year, and is tenable for three years.

Applications should be in the hands of the secretary of the selection committee, H. T. Logan, University of British Columbia, not later than October 20.

MAYOR SAYS HE DID NOT BLOCK PROGRESS

Refutes Claim of Other Delegates to Esquimalt Convention That He Interfered With Resolutions

Mayor William Marchant returned from the Kamloops convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities yesterday.

The Mayor said that he was well satisfied with the convention, and that Victoria managed to put through the majority of the resolutions endorsed by the City Council, although most of them were approved in an indirect way.

"Most of our resolutions were consolidated with resolutions submitted by other cities dealing with the same subject," said the Mayor. "That is the reason Victoria did not get credit for many of the things that were done at the convention, even though this city did play a big part."

The Mayor hotly denied the intimation of other delegates that his championship of his own resolutions had blocked them in their efforts to have the convention endorse resolutions supported by the Council as a whole.

"That's foolish talk," said the Mayor. "I did not interfere in the slightest while many of my own resolutions were not dealt with on the floor of the convention. Individual delegates came to me after the sessions and told me that I was on the right track, and that my ideas, particularly relating to the local government board, would surely materialize eventually."

Approved His Plans
The Mayor said that his plan to base assessment of cities of more than 20,000 population on a per capita and population basis met with favorable response, and was referred to the executive committee for further consideration.

"The only reason the proposition of local government boards was not discussed was that it has already been dealt with by the Union at previous conventions, and the majority of delegates saw no good reason to take the matter up again at this particular time," he said.

The Mayor said that some of the proposals of the Victoria Council were as good as beaten before they reached the convention.

"For instance, the proposed tax on horses," he remarked with a smile. "The thing was so obviously ridiculous that it was only considered, and who can be blamed for that?"

The Mayor is now preparing a detailed report of the convention, which will be submitted to the other Victoria delegates for their approval, and then to the City Council.

"The convention was a fine one," said the Mayor. "It was well worth while, and I believe the Union is doing excellent service."

The Mayor was elected to a place on the executive of the Union.

HAVE ENOUGH MONEY TO FINISH BRIDGE

City Engineer Believes Further Levy or Loan Is Unnecessary—May Hasten Sidewalk Work

Completion of the Johnson Street Bridge will probably be effected without the necessity of raising further loans or levying additional taxation, City Engineer F. M. Preston stated yesterday.

Mayor William Marchant has intimated during the last few days that the cost of the bridge would probably lead to a demand for additional funds, but Mr. Preston discounts that belief, saying that while the cost may run over the estimate in a few items, it is in others, so much as the estimate will be maintained.

So far, $320,000 has been raised for the building of the bridge. Although construction of the up-railroad span has not yet been started, Mr. Preston is confident that this amount will be sufficient to meet all requirements, and that it is almost impossible to tell how much a bridge will cost," he added.

Mr. Preston will submit a report to the Council in a few days, outlining the financial situation with regard to the bridge and the progress of construction.

LUNATIC RESPONSIBLE FOR CRIMINAL ACTS

Principle That a Person of Unsound Mind is Responsible for His Acts, Was Re-established at the Fall Assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario yesterday

Principle that a person of unsound mind is responsible for his acts, was re-established at the Fall assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario yesterday before Judge Lachford, when Mrs. Ida A. Wood, whose husband was shot and killed by Derrick Tennant, who was later found insane and committed to the Ontario hospital here, was given $4,000 damages after an agreement had been reached between her and the public trustee of Ontario, whom she sued for the loss of her husband's life and for injuries to herself.

CUNARD LINE TO TEST LIQUOR BAN

Will Give Liquor Law Trial in Supreme Court

Injunction Sought Meanwhile—Halifax Prepares to Welcome Deep Sea Rush of Traffic

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Officials of the Cunard Line announced tonight that they had launched steps to bring a test case in the United States Supreme Court on the rules of Attorney-General Daugherty that ships flying a foreign flag could not bring liquor for passengers within the three-mile limit.

The line sent its attorneys to Washington today to confer with the Attorney-General and to arrange for bringing for an injunction to restrain the Government from putting the liquor ban into effect.

Halifax Sanguine
HALIFAX, Oct. 11.—Halifax steamship agents express a lively interest in the possibility of a boom in this port as a result of the United States Attorney-General Daugherty's ruling against steamships entering United States ports with liquor on board.

The general comment in the steamship offices along the waterfront is "let them all come; we can take care of them."

Argue on Injunction
NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Officials of the Cunard and Anchor Steamship Companies late today instituted proceedings in the U.S. District Court here to restrain Government officials from seizing either their ships or the liquor aboard on the high seas.

The application for the injunction, after it had been opposed by Assistant United States Attorney Clarke, was refused by Judge Hanford, who, however, ordered the Federal authorities to show cause why the order should not be granted. Argument will be heard October 18.

The "dry" ship fight was taken into the local Federal court immediately preceding the departure of the companies' steamships for Washington, where they are to confer with Attorney-General Daugherty on the issues of his recent ruling.

The Anchor Line is a subsidiary of the Cunard Company. Ships of both concerns are under British registry.

Aid to Subsidy Fight
The attitude of the American Steamship Owners' Association, however, as expressed in an official statement today, after a meeting of directors, is that it will peacefully abide by the Daugherty ruling if the provision for a reward, lend their support to the ship subsidy bill now before Congress. After enumerating the disadvantages which private American vessels running "dry" will suffer in competition with foreign ships, the Association said: "There is but one way in which this disadvantage can be met, and that is by national aid along the lines now provided for in the national shipping bill."

"The Association believes that the friends of prohibition appreciate the situation and will be among the strongest advocates of giving to American ships every assistance that is necessary to maintain and uphold the merchant marine."

The Association's stand will be against any concerted effort to retain liquor on passenger ships by recourse to legal action, saying it felt "the situation is one which should be left to the individual companies."

In the judgment of the Association, however, "it is a foregone conclusion that if the interests of the Attorney-General is ultimately sustained American ships will be placed at such a great disadvantage that national aid must be given immediately if the privately-owned American ships now operating are to be maintained and the merchant marine and foreign trade developed," the directors' statement continues.

CEMETERY SITE IS WITHOUT PARALLEL

Consulting Engineer, Now Working on Technical Details, Has Praise for Inter-municipal Selection

"Victoria's new cemetery site is the most beautiful that I have ever seen in Canada or the United States," said Mr. A. A. Fischer, cemetery expert, who arrived here to act in an advisory capacity during the preparation of the municipal cemetery in Saanich.

Mr. Fischer is a member of the engineering firm of Gardner, Gardner & Fischer, which has been associated with the establishment of some of the most extensive and finest burial grounds in the Northwest.

Ald. Reginald Hayward, chairman of the Inter-municipal Board of Cemetery Commissioners, states that grading of the new cemetery site would be started at once, and that the whole project would be carried out according to the most advanced methods of cemetery layout.

The Board will not appoint a permanent superintendent for some time, Ald. Hayward intimated.

ACOSTA IS BARRED AS NAVAL AVIATOR

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Oct. 11.—Bert Acosta, widely-known aviator, has been barred from participating as a naval pilot in the Pulitzer race to be held at Selfridge Field Saturday. It was announced tonight.

Acosta had planned to drive the navy's Bee Line racer, his entry being made possible by a special commission. This plan, however, brought the objection that such a course might be construed as a reflection on the ability of the regular naval pilots, and an order from the Navy Department that the Bee Line racer be driven by a regular officer was issued.

Acosta, who is a test pilot for the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, may enter the Pulitzer event as a civilian pilot, it was said.

The Pulitzer race was won by Acosta at Omaha last year in a Curtiss navy racer, which he drove at a speed of 116 miles an hour. In a recent test of the Bee Line racer he was timed at 212 miles an hour.

Additional planes for the air races that begin Thursday continued to arrive today, some being flown to the field and some coming by express. Tonight all had been assembled and tested.

SPECIAL SERVICES HELD AT COLWOOD

Large Congregation Assembled in Church to Return Thanks for Bountiful Harvest

COLWOOD, Oct. 11.—The harvest thanksgiving service which was held in the Colwood Church on Sunday was largely attended, the building being filled to capacity. The singing of the choir was much enjoyed and the church was artistically decorated for the occasion.

The annual event of the harvest season was held in the Colwood Church last evening, when an excellent concert was provided by Mrs. George Deville, of Victoria. The artists included Miss Mardell, Mrs. Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. Ogilvy, Mr. Shoulton, Mr. Bryson and Rev. H. Pearson, who each earned well-deserved applause. The programme was concluded with a screaming farce, "Bringing Up Father," recently presented at Tillamook, which brought down the house last evening. The cast, consisting of the Misses V. and C. Schmitt, Rev. H. Pearson and Master Geoffrey Sharples, was excellent.

Mr. W. Bickford acted as chairman, and during the evening a great trade was done by Mr. D. Hatten, of Langford, who in the disguise of an auctioneer effected splendid results in disposing of the fruit and vegetables which had decorated the church.

The gross proceeds of the evening amounted to nearly $70, which will be added to the church funds. Donating to the strains of good local talent brought the enjoyable evening to a close.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MEETS

West Saanich Organization Has Completed Plans for Erection of New Hall

Definite plans for the erection of the new hall were finally agreed upon and work will be proceeded with at once.

Aprons, tray cloths, pillowslips and many other pretty and useful articles are being prepared, and it is the intention of the members to have the sale in time for the Christmas buyers.

Cake and tea were served by Miss H. Mober and Mrs. Malcolm.

Mrs. C. S. Fox and Mrs. James Murray are the two delegates representing the West Saanich Women's Institute, while Mrs. Nimmo and Mrs. Lawrie will represent the South Saanich Institute.

MEETING DISCUSSES MERVILLE'S AFFAIRS

Position of People Laid Before Courtney Board of Trade—Committee Named to Value Land

COURTENAY, Oct. 11.—Last night in the City Hall, the Board of Trade held a regular meeting which was not as well attended as might have been expected. In the absence of President MacIntyre, Mr. Wm. Duncan acted as chairman. A great deal of interest was taken in an address by Mr. R. G. Kerr, of Merville, who, accompanied by Messrs. Hughes and Egeke, also of the soldier settlement, explained the situation of the Merville people, particularly in respect to the value of the land. The suggestion was made by Mr. Pigott that a committee of recognized best farmers in the valley be asked to assess the Merville land and that the Government be asked to settle with the people there on that basis. This was favorably received by the Merville delegates.

A letter was read from Mr. Wilfred Smith, an erstwhile Courtenayan, now in Shanghai, asking for pamphlets regarding Comox, as he had come in contact with many ex-servicemen desirous of coming to British Columbia to settle.

The committee on seeding down the burnt-over area near Merville reported on their mission to the Comox Logging Company and said that the superintendent had promised to take the matter up with his company.

WHIST DRIVE

On Friday last a whist drive was held at Sandwick Public School. It was a thoroughly enjoyable affair, about sixty people being present. Prizes at cards were won by ladies, 1. Miss Phyllis McLeod; 2. An impromptu dance brought the evening to a close.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Moore, of Ladysmith, are visiting relatives in the district.

SOOKE ASSOCIATION DISCUSSES REPORT

Development of District by Proposed Road to Beach Pointed Out at Regular Monthly Meeting

On Monday evening the Sooke Harbor Development Association met at the Sooke Hall, with the president, Mr. John A. Murray, J.P., in the chair.

The chairman called upon Capt. John A. I. French to give the report of the special committee appointed two months ago to investigate the question of permanent access to Sooke Bay beach.

Capt. French gave a detailed account of the committee's work, and with the aid of a large map of the West Coast Survey, which was made in 1913, made his remarks very clear to the meeting. A letter had been mailed to the association from the Department of Public Works defining the portion of the West Coast Road that had now been gazetted as far as Tugwell Creek. No work could be done upon it at present as funds were not available, but it was hoped that that portion from the termination of the Grant Road, as far as Sooke Bay beach would soon be put in hand.

This would prove a big asset to the district. It would provide for hauling of good beach gravel for road work, give access to the beds of valuable kelp in Sooke Bay for land fertilization, and bring the tourist and the visitor in touch with one of the finest bays and beaches along the south-west coast, where there is such a good view of the Straits and Olympics.

Mr. Murray extended to Capt. French and the other members of this special committee the hearty thanks of the association for the careful work and time which they had spent upon a matter which was of so small importance to the district.

C.N.I.L. SERVICE

The secretary, Mr. W. Miller Higgs, reported that the gas car had now arrived in Victoria for operation on the Victoria to Sooke Harbor run, and that the "Y" at Milne's Landing station, Sooke River Road, was nearly completed, so that residents of the district might feel assured that the operation of the line might be an accomplished fact within a very few days.

Members of the association owning cars guaranteed to see that the trains were met for the first few days, when operation commences until a regular jitney service is commenced.

Mr. A. N. McNamara moved that the secretary write to the Dominion Government Telephone Company requesting that the pay telephone now on the Sooke wharf be transferred to Saanichton station. This was carried unanimously.

The question of winter road patrol of the roads was discussed, also local road matters. The hour being late, it was decided that road matters be made a special subject for their November meeting.

LANGFORD ACTIVITIES

LANGFORD, Oct. 10.—A social evening will be held at the Langford Hall on October 31 under the auspices of the Langford Women's Institute. The first hour will be devoted to Halloween frolics, after which a masquerade dance will be held.

A momentous decision was arrived at this afternoon at the monthly meeting of the Langford branch of the Women's Auxiliary, when arrangements were commenced for a chicken-and-ham supper to be held on November 6 at the Langford Hall, by way of celebrating Thanksgiving Day. The supper will be followed by an entertainment. A discussion afterwards arose as to parochial needs, which proved most interesting. The members were pleased to welcome a new friend, and the meeting closed with tea served by the hostesses, Mrs. R. F. Waddington, at whose house the meeting was held.

EARTHQUAKE ALARMS POPULATION OF ROME

ROME, Oct. 11.—A strong earthquake shock in this city, causing great alarm among the population, was felt here today. No damage, however, has been reported.

The apprehension among the people was stimulated by the recollection of similar shocks, although much less violent, which occurred in 1917 and continued a whole month. Ancona, on the Adriatic, 155 miles northeast of Rome, appears to have been the centre of today's shock. No reports of damage there were received.

Three Are Poisoned

They died yesterday within a few hours of each other. Officials have not determined the exact cause of the deaths.
